ABSTRACT

The manual is intended as a guide for initiating outreach projects for families of handicapped children. The manual is organized in four parts, covering the following topics: (1) the general organization of a family outreach project; (2) the development, content, administration and scoring of the Family Interview Schedule designed to examine family environment processes; (3) implementation of a family information management system based on computerized analysis of responses to the Family Interview Schedule; and (4) the use of the interview and management system in developing family outreach programs. Extensive appendixes include sample memos and forms and sample family interview materials (including scoring materials and code book). (CL)

INTRODUCTION

This manual is intended for use by school systems that are interested in learning more about the families of children they seek to educate. It is a guide for initiating a family outreach project in order to involve parents more fully in the education of their children. It is a major premise of such an effort that meaningful involvement of families through school-based outreach can increase children's ability to benefit from educational programs. Traditionally, parent involvement has been limited to such things as membership in the Parent-Teacher Organization, attendance at parent-teacher conferences, and voluntary participation in various school projects. For children with special educational needs, parent involvement includes participation and review of individual educational programs, home visits for preschoolers (sometimes), and often, little else.

Unfortunately many parents do not have the skills to participate effectively in planning their child's educational program. Many roles in the parent-school relationship are inappropriate and inadequate forms of involvement for families who cannot provide the necessary supports for effective child development. Improving the meaningfulness of parent involvement through comprehensive assessment of the family is the goal of the family outreach project described in this manual.

The material contained in this manual is a procedure for use by schools to characterize the needs of families as they relate to children's development. The instruments described here comprise the data collection system used in a research investigation of family environmental influences on children's intellectual development, academic achievement, and affective characteristics. The goal of the research study is to illuminate key aspects of the family environment that influence children's development and suggest what areas of need could be addressed by family outreach programs. As these results become available, the present manual will undergo successive modifications toward the goal of being a complete guide to assessing the needs of families. The results of family needs assessment forms the basis for the development of individualized family outreach programs. By cooperating in efforts to meet the needs of the family, the school thereby supports and extends its educational programs; and the possibilities for preventing or minimizing the extent of children's learning and behavior problems are enhanced. In those cases where family needs cannot be met, the school has the basis for expanding or modifying it's programs to meet children's educational needs.

The manual itself is divided into 4 major parts. Part I describes the general organization of a family outreach project. Part II details the development, contents, administration, and scoring of the Family Interview Schedule. Part III presents a plan for beginning a Family Information Management System (FIMS) by coding the information obtained in the Family Interview Schedule for use by computer software. Part IV discusses the use of the Family Interview Schedule and FIMS for the development of family outreach programs. Throughout each part, every attempt has been made to provide the user with the materials needed to implement the project within the constraints of copyright laws. These materials are located in the Appendices.

PART I

Organizing the Family Outreach Project

Organization

It may be said that the success of a school-based family outreach project is greatly dependent upon the school system's commitment to involving families in the education of their children beyond the traditional forms of involvement, e.g., PTO, parent-teacher conferences, IEP meetings, etc. Initiation of such a project requires the commitment and support of the school board, principals and teachers, and other interested persons and organizations in the community, e.g., social service organizations. Once a commitment has been made, most often in the form of time and resources, the project can be initiated.

Orientation

An important first step in the project is to inform all involved persons about the scope and nature of the project. It is important to orient school personnel and community service agencies about the general aspects of the project, as well as highlight specific things that may be asked of them, such as participating themselves if they are parents of school-age children, or, for a community agency, offering information about their agency for inclusion in a local resource directory. An example of the memo sent to teachers about the family research study mentioned earlier appears in Appendix A. In addition, small and large group meetings that allow personal contact, questions, and discussion are also highly recommended.

Staffing

Reorganization of current staff responsibilities and/or hiring new persons to conduct the project will be necessary. A school psychologist or school social worker is an excellent person to involve in such a project, perhaps in a limited liaison role. If a substantial number of families will be targeted for interviewing, one or more new staff members is advisable. Responsibilities for project coordination should also be assigned.

Regular staff meetings are important for a number of reasons. First, there will undoubtedly be many questions and situations that arise for interviewers. Open discussion will allow each staff member to learn from the experience of others. Staff time is also a good opportunity to develop a local resource directory or contribute to an existing one. Frequently, parents will ask questions about area resources that can be easily answered with correct, current information. Forms for compiling a local resource directory are presented in Appendix B.

PART II

The Family Interview Schedule.

Development of the Family Interview Schedule was guided by the question, What aspects of the family environment have been associated with children's learning and behavior problems? In other words, what family environmental influences increase a child's risk for learning and behavior problems? What family influences dilute the effectiveness of educational interventions? And, thus, what aspects of the family environment can be addressed by individualized family outreach programs. By combining etiological models of childhood learning and behavior problems and their associated risk factors (epidemiological correlates), the framework for a family risk protocol was established.

Previous research, specifically the work by Garber and Heber at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Ramey and Associates at the University of North Carolina, and Badger at the University of Cincinnati Medical School, used combinations of the following variables to indicate at-risk status of family functioning: 1) socioeconomic status, 2) maternal IQ, 3) quality of the home environment, 4) sibling functioning, 5) literacy, 6) number of children, 7) spacing of children, and 8) parental attitudes of hopelessness or negativism toward self and others. It has become increasingly clear, however that families who are homogeneously grouped according to characteristics generally described (e.g., socioeconomic status, family configuration, etc.) upon closer examination differ considerably in the types of physical, social, and psychological environments created in the home. Thus, the Family Interview Schedule encompasses both identified and hypothesized family risk variables.

The combination of instruments included in the Family Interview Schedule integrate clinical and standardized methods of measurement in order to gain a fuller understanding of family environmental processes. Instruments were chosen based on three criteria: 1) proven sensitivity to differences among families, 2) appropriateness of psychometric characteristics, and 3) feasibility for use in a school-based family outreach project, "feasibility" referring to instruments that could be used by school personnel (with minimal psychometric training), require minimal training for proper administration, and require a minimal amount of time to administer. Items from a variety of instruments were selected or adapted, and many parts of the Family Interview Schedule were developed for the family research investigation. In the following sections, an overview of the Family Interview Schedule and interviewing techniques will be presented. Each part of the Family Interview Schedule will then be described, along with specific "tips" for successfully completing each part. General scoring instructions are included for those parts of the Interview Schedule that yield scores.

Overview

The Family Interview Schedule was designed for individually interviewing up to 3 adults who are identified as "Mother/Mother Figure," "Father/Father Figure," and "Other Adult." The procedure established in the research investigation was to schedule the first home visit with the mother and at the home visit ask, "Who is the primary caregiver for the children living in this home? That is, who has the major responsibility for caring for the children?" The primary caregiver was given the entire Interview Schedule. As evidenced by the results of the research sample, still in the majority of families, the mother is the primary caregiver. Only one mother identified the father as the primary caregiver in the study sample, and in this case, the father completed the entire Interview Schedule.

The second question asked in the first interview was, "Is there a secondary caregiver of significance, (more than occasionally good care by a sibling, housekeeper, sitter, etc.)? That is, is there someone who truly shares responsibility for caring for the children? If the Father/Father Figure is indicated here or in the third question, which asks the presence or absence of a Father/Father Figure, he is asked to participate in a reduced Interview Schedule (outlined on p. 7 of the Family Interview Booklet). If some "Other Adult" is indicated as a secondary caregiver, he/she is asked to participate in the reduced Interview Schedule. No Father/Father Figure or Other Adult was asked to participate in the research project if he/she did not live in the home.

In order to complete the entire Family Interview Schedule, an interviewer will need all of the following items:

- .Family Interview Booklet (Appendix C)
- .Parent Answer Booklet (Appendix D)
- .Family and Friends Picture Card (Appendix E)
- .Cue Cards #1 and #2 (Appendix E)
- .Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test-Revised Picture Plates and Answer Form
- .Reading/Everyday Activities in Life Answer Booklet (Appendix F)
- .Reading/Everyday Activities in Life Cassette Tape (Appendix F, excerpt from directions for oral administration)
- .Cassette tape player
- .Matching Familiar Figures Test Picture Plates (Appendix G)
- .Stopwatch or wristwatch with stopwatch functions
- .Post-Interview Observations Form (Appendix H)
- .Pencils, pens, markers

It is advisable to allow one to two hours for each interview session. The entire Family Interview Schedule requires approximately two to three interview sessions to complete with one parent. An additional 1-1/2 hours is necessary if an additional parent or caregiver is interviewed with the reduced Interview Schedule (as indicated on p. 1 of Family Interview Booklet and throughout interview). It is recommended that interviewers take all the necessary materials on each home visit in the event that a parent wishes to continue beyond the expected length of the interview. Be prepared and be complete!

The amount of interview time and the number of home visits to complete the Family Interview Schedule will vary greatly due to such things as parent fatigue and/or interest, unexpected interruptions, cancellations, vacations, etc. In most cases, however, the parent is likely to complete the entire Interview Schedule. In the research sample, less than 5% of the families dropped out of the study before completion of at least the mother's Interview Schedule. Reasons for dropping out included an extended vacation, parent's disagreement over the family's participation, and simply, "I'm too busy now."

General Interviewing Techniques

Throughout the interview, the interviewer should help to create a relaxed and nonthreatening atmosphere while maintaining control of the interview process. The following points will help the interviewer maintain this balance:

1. Maintain a nonjudgmental attitude at all times. Respect the interviewee's attitudes and beliefs, and avoid imposing your values on them. Remain neutral and objective towards their responses; except for empathic comments when the interviewee is clearly expressing pain or sadness (e.g., the death of a child, Part B., "Other Information," Q. 1), emotional responses tend to bias the interview and may be in conflict with those of the interviewee. As one interviewer commented, "The concept of a nonjudgmental attitude is useful, yet it is hard to operationalize. I didn't have any pre-conceived notions of how this particular family should be. No advice, no 'therapizing,' no raised eyebrows."

2. The interviewees are an invaluable component of the project, and are giving their time and thoughts in contribution to future benefits with little or no immediate rewards. Share with the parents your acknowledgement of the value of their participation. During the introduction to the interview, be sure to stress the mutual nature of this project: parents are giving us information at this time so that we may work towards improving their children's school experience in the future.

3. Be familiar with the purpose and nature of the project, and share this information with the parents (see "To the Parent...", p. i of Interview Booklet). Be open to questions they may have, and know where and to whom to direct parents if you are unable to answer.

4. Let parents know that all information gathered during the interview is both confidential and anonymous, and adhere to this strictly. Explain the code numbers on the upper right hand corner of each page as insurance for anonymity and confidentiality.

5. If parents are reluctant to answer a question even though they know their responses are confidential, go on to the next question. The nonjudgmental attitude towards their responses should be extended to their right not to respond. Assure them that you respect this right; it is our purpose to gather information, but not at the cost of violating their sense of privacy.

6. Be personable, without being personal. Be familiar enough with the interview format that you can maintain eye contact as appropriate (i.e., without staring). Learn the parents' and children's names so you can refer to them by name during the interview, rather than merely using pronouns. Likewise, note gender and use it appropriately during the interview (i.e., when the parents have 3 daughters, don't read the "he" which may be written in the Interview Booklet).

7. Always offer to read each section of the interview, and allow parents to accept or refuse this offer. Some parents may have difficulty reading; your initial offer will spare them either the struggle of trying to read the material or the embarrassment of requesting you to read it for them.

8. Relax, and enjoy the people you are with!

Some problems arise---or could arise---with frequency. The following are suggestions for approaching these issues before they become problematic, and/or how to proceed when problems do come up.

1. Encouraging Father/Father Figure participation. During the initial introduction to the project, explain that its nature is such that the input of both parents is important. Stress the contributions that both parents make to their children. It is helpful to request that both parents be present at the initial interview (explanation of the project and gathering of biographical data). This often interests the father in future participation. If time is presented as an impediment to Father/Father Figure participation, offer to (1) schedule at any time which is convenient for him, and/or (2) to limit the Father/Father Figure's participation to the reduced Interview Schedule. When requesting Father/Father Figure participation, speak with the Father/Father Figure if at all possible. Direct contact is generally more effective and expeditious than relaying messages through the mother.

2. Scheduling. ALWAYS schedule at the parents' convenience. After briefly explaining the nature and purpose of the project (a more extensive explanation can be given at the first interview, in person), offer to meet with them at a time when both parents could be present (see #1 above). After a date has been set, offer to make a follow-up call shortly (a few hours or one day) before the interview. The purpose of this call is two-fold: (1) it is a courtesy to the parents and (2) should something have arisen unexpectedly which makes this inconvenient for them, it saves the interviewer a trip and provides an opportunity for rescheduling. If a follow-up call after having rescheduled an interview indicates that parents are still unable to meet with you, parents may be reluctant to meet at all, or may be better able to meet during a period which is less hectic for them. Clarify this with the parents, and reschedule as necessary. If they are reluctant to meet, offer to answer any questions or address reservations they may have. If they are still unwilling to meet, don't press the issue. Any parent participation is voluntary, and should not be forced.

3. Use of cue cards. Some sections of the interview require the use of cue cards which some parents find "silly." Explain that the purpose of these cards is to aid in standardization of the interview. If they continue to laugh at the cards, laugh with them! . . .but continue to use the cards.

4. Setting. It is easiest to conduct the interview at a table, since there is much written work for both parents and the interviewer. In almost all cases, a table is available. If one is not available, improvise using either your lap or the floor.

5. Presence of others during interview. As the interview is held in the parent's home, it is natural that other family members may be present during some parts of the interview, and that certain disruptions may occur (e.g., children coming home from school, baby awakening from a nap, etc.). These can be accommodated---and should be---unless they become significant distractions. If it becomes difficult or impossible for the interview to continue, ask if they would prefer to move to another room, and/or offer to reschedule the interview at a time which may be less busy for them. This can be asked tactfully, e.g., "I can see this is a busy time for you, and we're having some difficulty keeping track. Would you like to reschedule at another time that may be less hectic for you?" If--as happens infrequently--parents wish to continue the interview although disruptions make it impossible, you may need to state, simply, that you are having some problems concentrating, and ask if there is another place or time which may be more quiet. Rarely, however, will this be necessary. If no alternatives are available, proceed with the interview.

In the following sections, each part of the Family Interview Schedule will be discussed. Each part ~~will~~ be briefly described, along with tips on successfully completing each interviewing task and directions for scoring, if appropriate.

Introduction (p. i)

Parents who have agreed to participate in the project will appreciate a brief review of its purpose. On p. i of the Interview Booklet is a letter, "To the Parent...", which is provided as a reference for the interviewer to use when informing parents about the project. If parents still have questions, encourage them to contact the school principal or other liaison person. The comments of one interviewer in Stoughton may be helpful: "When I introduced the interview, I gave a brief overview of the project, emphasizing what Stoughton would receive from the final project. I went heavy on the confidentiality and their freedom to refuse to answer questions (lots of eye contact on that part)."

Cover Sheet (p. ii)

This is a good place to start the actual interview of the parents, not only because it is first in the schedule (:), but because the factual information requested is less threatening than the later, more open-ended sections of the questionnaire. Be as flexible as possible in scheduling interview times that can include both parents (see "tips" on scheduling Father/Father Figure).

Family Interview Schedule (p. iii)

In respect for parents' time and the smooth flow of the interview, complete this section either when parents are participating in part of the interview that doesn't require you to write responses (e.g., R/EAL), or after you have left the home.

Part A. Determination of Caregiving Responsibilities (p. i)

The purpose of this short, albeit important, section is to determine primary and secondary caregivers, which defines what parts of the Interview Schedule are to be administered. It may be necessary, in this section, to further define both primary and secondary caregiver. It is helpful, in that case, to give examples of those things which may determine the primacy of caregiving: e.g., "Who spends the most time with the children?", "Who takes the children to appointments, fixes their meals, gives them baths?", etc. Be sure to be open to diverse family structures, rather than just the traditional two-parent family. If there is difficulty determining the presence of a primary caregiver, secondary caregiver, and/or father figure, note the respondent's comments and consult at a later time with supervisor and other members of the family outreach staff.

Also the phrase "of significance" may be clarified here to refer to the amount of time given to child care, so as not to impute a quality to this person which is not intended.

Part B. Child Information (p. 4)

This part of the interview asks general questions (e.g., date of birth, relationship to mother, etc.) about each of the family's children. Following the general questions, more specific questions (p. 8) are asked about each of the children living at home. The specific questions focus on the parents aspirations and expectations for each of their children, e.g., "How much education do you want Andrew to receive?" and "How much education do you expect Andrew to receive?" This section also includes questions about the child's social orientation, hobbies and interests, and strengths or things the child does well. The last few questions in Part A includes a question about children who are not now living (if any) and general questions about other adults who may be living with the family.

This section is straightforward and presents few difficulties in data gathering, with the exception of the section "Specific Child Information."

Parents often comment that they cannot know the answers to these questions.

It is helpful to introduce this section by acknowledging that it requests some projection on the parents' part, and is designed to elicit parents' ideas or hopes, not specific "facts." Questions 7-9 and 11-12 may elicit more accurate responses if parents are allowed to answer them without having the possible responses read to them; the interviewer can then assign the number which corresponds to the parent's response. Allow parents time to respond; however, if they cannot think of what their child(ren) does, note this in the Interview Booklet, as it also provides valuable information on parent's attitudes. The question concerning deceased children--Question 1, "Other Information"--may be a sensitive one for some parents. Be respectful of this; if the parent does not wish to discuss it, note that and go on to the next question.

Part C. Family Health (p. 15)

The questions that comprise this part are an attempt to characterize the current health status of the family. Questions 1 and 2 probe health complaints and conditions of family members, and are followed by questions about sensory and physical impairments. Part C also taps the family's history of hospitalization, health care, and smoking habits, as a indication of harmful health habits. Part C utilizes cue cards for clarification (see Overview, on the use of cue cards; see Appendix E for cue cards).

A few tips may be helpful in completing Part C. Clarify that the information requested pertains to members of the immediate family only (in Question 1, to only the children; in Question 2, to children and adults). Although parents may volunteer information concerning aunts, cousins, etc., it is not within the purview of this part. When asking Question 6 (history of hospitalization), remember that it is difficult for many people to recall specific dates and duration of hospital stays. If this is the case during an interview, encourage approximations, and indicate these in the Interview Booklet. Responses to this question may be found to augment or contradict information given in response to Questions 1 and 2. If so, try to clarify this with the parents, and note the changes. It is often necessary, in Question 8, to define "routine care." A useful definition is: regular medical or dental checkups, even when nothing appears to be wrong. Also, people may be sensitive to receiving public assistance (Questions 11 and 12). Be sure to avoid any implication of social stigma.

A number of parts in the Family Survey Interview require specific scoring procedures in order to move beyond the general impressions reflected in interview responses. Although it is certainly useful to know the type and frequency of a particular child's health complaints, it is also useful to get a general idea of the family's health status. For the research study, a Family Health Status Index was devised, based on a number of predetermined items included in Part C of the Interview Schedule. Six health factors were rated from the health information provided by the parent: 1) health conditions,

2) health complaints, 3) sensory/physical problems, 4) health habits, 5). health care, and 6) perceived quality of health care. The sum of the health factor ratings represented the current health status of the family. The Health Index Worksheet used appears in Appendix I.

Part D. Family Activities (p. 21)

Items included in this part were adapted from the Henderson Environmental Learning Process Scale (Henderson, Bergan, & Hunt, 1972). At this time, the Parent Answer Booklet is introduced (Appendix D). The Answer Booklet allows the parent to become more involved in the interview process, and to record their answers with a greater sense of confidentiality. It also provides for some variety in the interview format.

Despite the introduction to this part of the interview, in which you explain the purpose of the project and the roles of parents and yourself, parents may be hesitant to respond to some questions in Parts D and E (particularly those questions that ask for an evaluation of school programs). Before proceeding with these parts, you can clarify any potential misunderstandings of this nature by reminding parents of the nature of your role, the purpose of the project, and the anonymity and confidentiality of responses.

The answers in Section D are given on a continuum, which some parents find confusing. Be sure to read the various responses as they appear in the booklet, and allow time for parents to select a response. Some parents find this section difficult, others hesitate in responding because they feel they should do certain activities, but don't. Assure them that certain parts of the interview are indeed more difficult than others, and that we are merely interested in getting a general understanding of activities families participate in, not in judging the families.

Family Activities can be scored to yield five factors: 1) extended interests and community involvement (I), 2) valuing language and school related behavior (II), 3) intellectual guidance (III), 4) providing a supportive environment to school learning (IV), and 5) attention (V). The sum of the five factor scores suggests the quality of the home environment for learning. The scoring key and scoring sheet for Family Activities appears in Appendix I.

Part E. Attitudes Toward Education and Child Rearing (p. 27)

This part of the Interview Schedule includes questions about the parent's recent contacts with the school, children's history of repeated or skipped grades, and parent involvement in the schools. Part E also includes the 15-item Parental Modernity Scale-Parent Form (Schaefer & Edgerton, 1981), designed as a scale of parental modernity in child rearing and educational beliefs and attitudes.

Again, it is important that parents understand that all answers will be kept anonymous and confidential. A few questions in this section frequently need clarification for parents, as noted below. For suggestions on using the cue cards, see Overview.

Question 1. This question refers to any contacts parents have had with the school concerning their child's education--it is not confined to parent-teacher conferences.

Questions 6, 7. Parents occasionally misconstrue this question, and think that their involvement would supplant, rather than supplement, the involvement of the teachers. Assure them that these activities would be in addition to those which take place at school.

Question 27. Be sure to allow parents free reign in answering this question---even if the qualities or duties they describe do not, to you, seem applicable to a teacher. (For example, one parent commented that "a good teacher should have children of his/her own, and should help around the house"--indicating that this parent felt a teacher should experience directly and personally the experience of having children to raise.)

Question 28. Clarify that "changes" mean anything different than the current status, not just something innovative and novel. Many parents indicated a return to the "old ways" they experienced in school, but would not have volunteered this desire if they understood the question to refer only to "new things."

Questions 11 through 25 (not 26) comprise that the Parental Modernity Scale and can be scored for modernity in child rearing and educational attitudes. The scoring form for the Scale appears in Appendix I.

Parts F, G, and H. Parent Figure Information (pp. 33-52)

Each of these parts of the Interview Schedule ask the same general background information of the Mother/Mother Figure, Father/Father Figure, and Other Adult, as appropriate. These questions tap the parents' own educational experiences (e.g., "What kind of a student were you? How would you describe yourself?"), employment history and job satisfaction, and marital history. The primary caregiver (most often, the mother) is asked to provide background information for the Father/Father Figure and/or Other Adult, and the interviewer is encouraged to corroborate this information with the other parent figure, if possible. Part F. Mother/Mother Figure Information (p. 33) also includes two additional sets of items: questions pertaining to the mother's experiences with pregnancy and childbirth, and a 48-item Self-Description Checklist (p. 39).

Instructions for gathering the data from the respective parties are clearly outlined in the Interview Booklet and Parent Answer Booklet, and the questions themselves are straightforward. As in Part B (Child Information), greater accuracy of response is usually obtained if the parents are allowed to answer the questions before being read the possible responses. The interviewer can then check with the parent on the specific category this response may fill. For example, Question 7, the interviewer may ask the parent what her or his current employment status is, and then check the appropriate box. It is particularly important in the employment section to avoid implications that those who are not receiving a paycheck for their work (e.g., housewives, retired, or disabled persons) are involved with less significant activities. Employment questions pertain to any work-related activity in which the person may be involved.

The Self-Description Checklist is a part of the interview in which confidentiality and anonymity must again be stressed. This extends to confidentiality between the two parent figures. Spouses are frequently curious, in this section and in Question 11 (rating current relationship), to know how their partner has responded. Should this arise during an interview, remind the parent of confidentiality, and that you, therefore, cannot give this information from either parent to the other. They may, however, direct their question to the other parent, if they wish.

Scoring procedures for Parts F, G, and H pertain to the Self-Description Checklist and Socioeconomic Index of Occupational Status, derived from the employment questions asked for each parent. The items for the Self-Description Checklist comprise the brief form of the Multiple Affect Adjective Checklist (Zuckerman & Lubin, 1965). This checklist is designed to tap an individual's general feelings about themselves, how they usually feel. Scoring of the Self-Description Checklist yields separate subscale scores for Anxiety and Depression (Appendix I).

The employment questions asked for each parent figure were specifically constructed to yield the information necessary to determine a Socioeconomic Index of Occupational Status (Stevens & Featherman, 1980). Use of an Occupational Index, versus a Socioeconomic Index such as Hollingshead's Two-Factor Index, follows the recommendations of Mueller and Parcel (1981). These researchers recommend the use of separate occupational, educational, and income status variables, since the latter two characteristics correlate only moderately with occupation-based scales.* Stevens and Featherman (1980) have offered a revision of Duncan's Socioeconomic Index (SEI), a widely used indicator of occupational ranking based on data from the 1950 Census. The Revised Socioeconomic Index of Occupational Status (MSEI2) has been recommended for child development studies and when studying relatively small groups (Featherman, personal communication).

The procedure for determining an individual's Occupational Status (MSEI2) is detailed but clearly outlined in two readily-available sources. These are:

A Manual for Coding Occupations and Industries into Detailed 1970 Categories and a Listing of 1970-Basis Duncan Socioeconomic and NORC Prestige Scores by D. L. Featherman, M. Sobel, & D. Dickens. Center for Demography and Ecology. The University of Wisconsin-Madison. Working Paper #75-1.

The Process of Stratification by R. M. Hauser & D. L. Featherman. New York: Academic Press, 1977: (see Chapter 2: The Measurement of Occupation in Social Surveys).

Briefly, in order to obtain the Revised Occupational Index (MSEI2), the 2-digit Occupational Census Code is required. Appendix I provides the MSEI2 scores for Occupational Census Codes, and the Occupational Status Coding Worksheet used in the research investigation.

Part I. Background Information (p. 53)

The purpose of this part is to obtain general background information about the family, such as residential mobility, housing density, religious preference, income, etc. Interviewers are asked to obtain this information on the first visit, in order to get some idea of the family's characteristics should the family drop out of the project. The questions are fairly straightforward and present few problems during the interview. The major difficulty encountered is with Questions 15 and 16; respondents occasionally are not clear about how to mark these responses. Give the directions carefully, and be open---as usual---to questions when asked. The Parent Answer Booklet is used here in order to emphasize confidentiality for what are often sensitive questions concerning family income and resources.

Part J. Language (p. 57)

This part of the Interview Schedule is the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test-Revised (Dunn & Dunn, 1981). It is included as an estimate of the language environment in the home, i.e., the verbal skills of parents. The interviewer must be thoroughly familiar with the PPVT-R manual and materials. To administer the PPVT-R, the interviewer will need the PPVT-R picture plates and an answer form for each participating parent.

Because this part of the interview involves exercises to which there are clearly right and wrong answers, it can give rise to some anxiety among parents who are concerned about performing well. To help alleviate some of these concerns; it is helpful to set as relaxed an atmosphere as possible. Encourage the parents to take as much time as they need in choosing a response, and be discrete in recording responses. Setting up the PPVT-R picture plate booklet so that it faces the respondent with its back to the interviewer, and then placing the answer form behind the picture plate booklet allows the interviewer to record responses while out of view of the respondent. If respondents are interested in knowing which responses were correct, offer to go over the test with them after they have completed it.

Some parents become frustrated with this test, or bemoan that they are "stupid." Again, assure parents that some parts of the interview are much more difficult than others, and encourage them to proceed at their own rate and, if they are uncertain of a response, to make their best guess.

PPVT-R scoring procedures are described in the PPVT-R Manual. The interviewer should score the completed answer sheet after leaving the home and transfer all scores to the appropriate page in the Family Interview Booklet.

Part K. Family and Friends (p. 65)

This part of the Interview Schedule was developed to measure the quality of the family's informal social network. Research has begun to validate the role that social support may play in "buffering" the individual from the effects of stress (Cassel, 1974; Cobb, 1976). Social network analysis provides a way of examining an individual's social ties across a range of settings, and the linking of social support to various aspects of psychological adaption offers a theoretical base for developing broad-based preventive interventions (Mitchell, 1980).

Family and Friends was designed to measure various social network characteristics, including structural characteristics (e.g., size, density), characteristics of component linkages (e.g., multidimensionality, reciprocity), and the normative context of the relationship (e.g., family, friends).

The instrument is composed of six tasks that attempt to assess the quality (supportiveness) of the primary caregiver's (usually mother's) social network. The major supportive functions of informal social ties are reflected in the four picture frames of the Family and Friends picture card (Appendix E), which is used to assist respondent with certain tasks. The supportive functions illustrated by the picture frames include: 1) emotional support, 2) task-oriented assistance, 3) maintenance of a social identity, and 4) access to new and diverse social contacts and information. Individual responses to each of the six tasks are recorded on pages 7 and 8 of the Parent Answer Booklet. Parents often find this section of the interview enjoyable; the only difficulties encountered with this section involve instructions for completing each task, and are easily remedied by reading instructions carefully and being open to questions.

A rating procedure has been derived for assessing the quality of the respondent's social network. The total quality score is the sum of ratings for: 1) size of the social network, 2) average quality of relationships, 3) normative context of relationships, and 4) network density. A Family and Friends Social Network Analysis Worksheet for obtaining these ratings is presented in Appendix I.

Part L. Community Resources (p. 67)

The general purpose of this part is to get an idea of the family's awareness and use of a variety of community resources. It also reflects the extent to which family members venture beyond their home environment. Specific questions are asked about leisure and recreation activities and programs, clubs and organizations, daily services (e.g., bus, newspaper, and human services and programs). This part asks parents to comment on community resources--with which they may or may not be familiar. In some cases, a parent may indicate that a community resource exists which you feel certain does not exist (or vice versa). If this happens, probe gently: "Oh, I didn't realize _____ had a youth hockey team. . ." You may become familiar with resources of which you were unaware, or discover that the respondent is referring to something other than an organized activity. This is also a good time to share you knowledge of resources that may be of interest to the family.

As in Part D (Family Activities), some parents feel that they should be involved in more groups than they actually are. Let the parents know that this section is designed to give a cross-section of parents' interests and activities, and doesn't presume that "more is better." Be sure that responses to Question 24 (Service and Programs) pertain to the services and programs listed previously. (One parent, in response to this question, described difficulties in returning a hand saw to a hardware store.)

Part M. Reading/Everyday Activities in Life-R/EAL (p. 73)

This part of the Interview Schedule asks the parent to complete a short, adult reading test. The interviewer must be thoroughly familiar with the R/EAL Examiner's Manual and test materials (Lichtman, 1978). In order to give the R/EAL, the interviewer will need a R/EAL answer booklet (one for each respondent; Appendix F), a R/EAL tape cassette, and a tape cassette player. The R/EAL is self-administered and complete directions are provided on the R/EAL tape cassette. An excerpt from the directions for oral administration are presented in Appendix F as a sample of the tape contents. The interviewer need only explain or demonstrate how to operate the cassette player so the respondent can complete the test at his/her own pace.

More than any other, this part can intimidate parents, because they feel they are being tested--as they are! If parents refuse to participate in this, go on to the next part. To set them at ease with the R/EAL, explain that it entails listening to the tape and answering questions concerning the tape material. It is not timed, and they may take as long as they wish to complete it, can stop the tape as often as they like, and rewind the tape to hear sections over again. Given the above conditions, both parents may take the test at the same time, but cannot consult on responses until the test is finished. Remain available for any questions parents may have concerning the test process or tape recorder operation (but not for answers to tape questions!).

Be open to any comments parents may have about the R/EAL; some parents don't particularly like this section of the interview, and will tell you. You can respond to this in a variety of ways---"Yes, many people have the same opinion," "I found it difficult when I took it myself," etc. Above all, be receptive to their comments and remember, they are referring to the R/EAL, not to you!

Scoring procedures for the R/EAL are described in the R/EAL Examiner's Manual.

Part N. Personal Feelings and Beliefs (p. 75)

These 40 questions comprise the Adult Locus of Control Scale developed by Nowicki and Duke (1974). It is designed to measure an individual's "locus of control": the degree to which attribution of causality of behavior is made either to oneself or to sources external to oneself. The respondent is asked to circle "Yes" or "No" to each of the items in their Parent Answer Booklet, p. 10-12.

Instructions for administering Part N direct the interviewer to read the items aloud while the respondent marks in the Parent Answer Booklet. However, some parents prefer to complete this part by themselves, without your reading it to them. If they want to do this, and can, that is fine; however, always make the initial offer to read the questions aloud. This offer saves embarrassment for those who may have difficulty reading. Also, parents frequently observe that they cannot answer these questions as absolutely "Yes" or "No".

- Acknowledge this difficulty, and ask them to respond according to how they generally feel about these questions.

The scoring procedures for Personal Feelings and Beliefs is to sum the number of items answered in the direction of an external locus of control. A scoring key for the scale is provided in Appendix I.

Part O. Problem-Solving Task (p. 79)

This part of the Interview Schedule begins with the Matching Familiar Figures Test-MFFT (Kagan, 1965), a measure of an individual's impulsiveness or reflectiveness on match-to-sample problems. Some preliminary research has suggested that there are similarities in parents' and childrens' cognitive style as measured by the MFFT and similar tests. Ineffective problem-solving skills have serious implications for academic achievement. The MFFT is included as an assessment of the adult models for problem-solving available to the child.

It is very important for the interviewer to be familiar with the mechanics of administering the MFFT (outlined in the Interview Booklet), so that each step is well-coordinated and the test can proceed smoothly. The interviewer will need the MFFT series of picture plates (Appendix G), a stopwatch, and a response form (located in the Interview Booklet). As with the PPVT-R, it is advisable to set the MFFT booklet so that it both faces the parent and blocks the parent's view of the interviewer's scoring. The use of the stopwatch and the scoring itself should be done as inobtrusively as possible. Some parents are wary of the stopwatch; the best way to put them at ease in this regard is to be straightforward. Mention, in your explanation of the MFFT procedure, that you will be using a stopwatch, but that this is not strictly a speed test. The objective is to correctly match the two identical pictures; the watch is used to measure the time this takes. If the parent makes an incorrect choice, encourage him/her to try again. Allow as much time as needed. If, when the test is completed, they would like to examine some of the pictures again, go over the pictures with them. As participants in this project, the parents' request should be honored to as great an extent as possible.

Scoring procedures for the MMFT yield four scores: (1) total number of correct items, (2) total number of errors, (3) mean (average) number of errors, and (4) mean (average) latency, i.e., time it takes to give the first response. All scores can be calculated and entered on the answer forms in the Family Interview Booklet (pp. 81, 83, & 85).

Following administration of the MFFT, the interviewer is instructed to ask MFFT follow-up questions of the primary caregiver. These questions are an attempt to tap the respondent's method of teaching a task like the MFFT to a school-age child. Although many studies have examined parents' teaching of young children, little is known about parental teaching styles for older children.

Part P. Our Family (p. 89)

This is the last part of the Interview Schedule and is made up of four types of questions. The first section of Part P, Question 1 through 40, comprises the short form of the Family Environment Scale (Moos, 1974). This is a true-false scale designed to assess the social climate of the family environment. Answers to the scale are recorded by the respondent on page 13 and 14 of the Parent Answer Booklet. As with Part N, allow parents to complete the true-false section independently if they wish, but always offer to read it aloud. Encourage parents to mark the response which indicates how they usually feel, even if they feel there is no "absolute" answer. Scoring of the Family Environment Scale yields 10 subscale scores: cohesion, expressiveness, conflict, independence, achievement orientation, intellectual-cultural orientation, active-recreational orientation, moral-religious orientation, organization, and control. Directions for scoring the scale are described in the Family Work Group Environment Scale Manual (Moos, Insel, & Humphrey, 1974). A scoring sheet for scoring the short form is provided in Appendix I.

Questions 41 through 43 (p. 91) deal with family rules and regulations. The parent is asked about the kinds of rules the family has, who makes the rules, and how rules are enforced. It is helpful to read all the possible responses to Question 42 for the respondents, so they are aware of the possibilities before answering. Often parents will quickly respond by saying that they make the rules but, upon hearing the alternatives, modify their response to include children to some degree.

An approach known as "verbal problem-solving" (Ayer, 1975) was adapted for this part of the interview. After listening to the analogue, the parent is asked a series of questions:

.What are all the things you might do?

.Are there some things other parents might do?

.Which one of these things would you do?

.What would happen then?

Following the questions on rules, the parent is asked to listen to an analogue (p. 92) describing children's misbehavior:

Discipline Problem #1

Kathy and brother Jim are arguing about what TV show to watch. They cannot agree on the same program and their voices get louder as they continue to argue. Jim goes to the TV and turns the channel to the program he wants to watch. Kathy throws a pillow at him, but hits the lamp instead. It shatters into pieces. You have been watching the whole time.

Responses to these questions are rated for effectiveness of approach to the disciplinary problem. The effectiveness ratings (0, 1, 2, 3) were determined from a large sample of parental responses to the questions, reflecting their approach to dealing with the children's misbehavior. The rating scale for Discipline Problem #1 effectiveness of approach is detailed in Appendix I (Directions are also included for determining a "range" score, or number of unique, relevant responses offered by the parent).

A second analogue is read to parents in two parent/partner families only (p. 93). In addition to presenting a description of children's rule-breaking, this analogue described an instance of parental disagreement over disciplinary action:

Discipline Problem #2

Your grandmother is visiting and you have planned a large family dinner. Everyone in the family is to be home for dinner at 6:00 p.m. One of your children is out with his friends and arrives as you are serving dessert. Your spouse/partner insists that the child go to his room without dinner and stay there the rest of the evening. You insist that you want him to spend time with his grandmother since she's only visiting a short time.

A verbal problem-solving approach is again used to determine the effectiveness of the parent's approach to solving the problem. The effectiveness ratings were determined in the same way as described above, and scoring procedures for Discipline Problem #2 are located in Appendix I. A tip on completing this section of the interview: It may be helpful to introduce these questions (44 & 45) by stating that they are situations the parents may or may not find themselves in, we are asking what they might do if they were in such a situation. This anticipates parents' response that the "my children would never do that," or "my children know better."

The last set of questions (46-52) in Part P and the entire interview ask the parent to comment on their role as a parent. Parents are asked, "What things about yourself help you to 'stay on top of things'?" and "Are there things that make it hard for you to cope (e.g., day-to-day things that cause you a lot of stress)?". Parents are also asked about important sources of help to them as a parent, and the most serious problem for them as a parent. In closing, the interviewer asks the parent to freely comment on any of the things they've talked about and done together.

Part Q Post-Interview Observations (Separate Form)

Many items that make up the Post-Interview Observation form have been selected and adapted from the Home Quality Rating Scale (Meyers, Nihira, & Mink, 1981) and the Home Observation for Measurement of the Environment (Caldwell & Bradley, 1978). Additional items were developed through the family research study and added to the observational ratings.

Part Q is to be completed after ALL parts of the interview schedule have been administered. If more than one interviewer has participated in administering the interview schedule, each interviewer must complete Part Q. Obtain an additional copy of Part Q and attach both observation forms to the interview form. Be sure to enter your name, the date, the number of home visits you have made to this family, and the family members you have interviewed or observed during the home visits. General directions for completing Part Q are given below. Be familiar with the observation items you will be asked to rate after the home visit.

Questions 1 through 26

These items provide a means of organizing and qualifying your observations. Each item requires you to make a judgment based on your observations and impressions of the home environment. You will no doubt feel more certain about some ratings over others but please provide a rating unless the item does not apply, e.g., you would not provide a rating for #4--Maternal Overprotection--if there is no Mother/Mother Figure in the home.

The ratings are to be made referring to children in general. If a rating would be very different for a particular child, please make a note of your impressions in the space provided for comments below each item. Additional comments about aspects of the home environment can be written in this space as well. Comments are welcome.

Questions
27 through 39

These items provide additional information on the physical aspects of the home environment. Check Yes if the item describes the environment, i.e., Yes is equivalent to True; the more Yes items, the better the physical quality of the home environment. Please avoid checking No Opportunity To Observe unless you absolutely cannot rate Yes or No. Guidelines for scoring these items is given below.

- * 27. House is not overly noisy - TV, shouts of children, radio, etc.

The interviewer will use his or her good judgment to score this item. A certain amount of background noise is expected. Loud, distracting noises, however, will receive a "No."

- * 28. In terms of available floor space, the rooms are not overcrowded with furniture.

Is the furniture arranged in a manner so that all of the exits are free and easily accessible? Does the living area allow for freedom of movement and room for the children to play, unless another specified area is designated as a play area?

- * 29. Furniture is not in obvious need of repair.

Furniture is in good shape or has maintained reasonable wear and tear. Springs, stuffing, etc. is not readily apparent.

- * 30. All visible rooms of the house are reasonably clean and minimally cluttered.

The interviewer will have to use his or her own good judgment.

- * 31. There is at least 100 square feet of living space per person in the house.

In making a rough calculation for this item, we use as a general rule of thumb a 9 x 12 room as being about the right amount of space for one person. A little simple math is then all that is required for scoring.

- * 32. The interior of the house is not dark or perceptually monotonous.

On this item the interviewer can take into account the lack of lighting, drawn drapes, lack of pictures or plants, or a seeming lack of effort to dress the home up and make it attractive.

*Observation item descriptions excerpted from H.O.M.E.-Experimental Elementary Version, 1982 (Bradley, personal communication).

- * 33. Family displays children's art or craft work somewhere in house (anything that children have made).

The children's art or craft work may include drawings, paintings, pottery, woodwork, models, needlework, etc.

- * 34. House has at least two pictures or other type of art work on the walls.

Art work should be interpreted rather liberally. It may include posters, wall hangings, etc. Children's school art work, however, will not count for this item.

- * 35. Family has at least one house plant.

The intent of this item is to determine if there is a plant present in the home. The house plant may be small or large and may belong to any member of the family.

- * 36. At least 10 books are present and VISIBLE in the home.

The word "visible" was added to this item to make it an observation rather than an interview item if possible. The intent of the item is to find out something about whether the children are growing up in a family that reads and values having books around. There might be a set of encyclopedias on the shelf which appears to be unopened. Nonetheless, presence of the books would indicate that the family values their possession and credit would thus be given.

37. Family has use of a working stove and refrigerator.

If these household appliances are visible, assume they are working, unless you have reason to think otherwise.

38. Family has use of running water.

Conversations with the family may indicate difficulties with a well or system for running water.

39. Family has a system for heating their house.

Again, conversations with the family indicate heating problems. Space heaters and wood burning stoves count as systems for heating a house.

Questions

40 & 41

These questions are simply Yes or No, or for Question 41, not appropriate.

Question 42

The intent of this item is to get an idea of the availability of educational and play materials and objects. It may be helpful to jot down materials and objects as you see them in the margins of the interview form and transfer them here after the interview.

*Observation item descriptions excerpted from H.O.M.E.-Experimental Elementary Version, 1982 (Bradley, personal communication).

Question 43 This is a check on the reliability of the interview process. Please describe any unusual circumstances that occurred during the interviews.

Question 44 Please comment on anything you think would add to our understanding of this family. . . Observations, impression, attitudes, and other aspects of the family that may be important to know. Your comments are VALUABLE!

A variety of factor or cluster scores can be derived from the Post-Interview Observations. These include aspects of parenting (e.g., harmony and quality of parenting (concordance in support of child care), aspects of the physical home environment (e.g., quality of the residential environment, quality of the physical environment), and specific observational ratings of parents' characteristics (e.g., self concept, social competence, communicative competence). Scoring instructions and scoring sheet for the Post-Interview Observations are included in Appendix I.

Training

A few brief comments about training family interviewers may be useful. In the research investigation, interviewer training was conducted in five steps:

1. General orientation to the study and guided review of each part of the Interview Schedule.
2. Viewing a prepared videotape of a pilot study interview followed by a review session; trainees also completed a Post-Interview Observation form based on their impressions of the families from the videotaped interview.
3. Personal study of all materials, including interview questions and test manuals and materials; trainees also took each test/task included in the Interview Schedule.
4. Role-playing each test/task included in the Interview Schedule with two other trained persons.
5. Conducting at least one practice Family Interview in its entirety.

In addition, Post-Interview Observations based on the videotaped interview were compared to the actual interviewer's Post-Interview Observations. A minimum of 80% interobserver agreement was required for training completion.

PART III

Implementing A Family Information Management System

The Processes Involved

An extensive amount of family information is obtained through the Family Interview Schedule. In order to efficiently handle this amount of information, the completed interviews have to be checked and transferred into a format suitable for computer use. For a small set of interviews and a handful of questions, it might be feasible to process the data by going through the interviews manually. However, the massive amount of information generated by the Family Interview Schedule requires a system by which the responses can be transferred onto a computer file for use. Before this can be done, all responses have to be translated into numerical codes.

The main functions that follow data collection and precede analysis and use are editing and coding. Some of the translation of answers into numerical codes has been already carried out by the interviewers; for pre-coded questions they circle the code number corresponding most closely to the respondents' answers. Also, a number of tests/tasks included in the schedule (e.g., PPVT-R, R/EAL, MFFT, etc.) are scored after the interview is completed and yield numerical codes. For a number of questions, however, the final coding has to be done after the fieldwork. For the Family Interview Schedule, coding frames have already been developed for each open-ended question. To do this, responses from a sample of 20 interviews were listed and examined for the range of responses. Categories were developed from this sampling and numerical codes were assigned to the resultant coding categories.

Preparation of the family data involves a number of steps:

Editing. Interviews have to be examined for errors. Editing includes checking for consistant errors by an interviewer who may have misunderstood an instruction, and for individual errors arising from carelessness. Interviews must also be checked for completeness.

Coding. The open ended responses in each interview have to be assigned numerical codes according to the coding frames, and certain precoding operations (e.g., scoring of tests/tasks, determining occupational status) will have to be performed.

Punching. The coded interviews are then ready to be transferred onto a computer file. The method of transfer varies; as a rule, punched cards are introduced as an intermediate step; in some cases, however, the information in the interview may be transferred directly to tape or disk.

Computer editing. A clerical edit of completed interviews is reinforced by a more extensive and detailed computer edit. An edit specification is prepared which instructs the computer to check, as it reads the data, for possible errors and inconsistencies. Once the data has been "cleaned," it is ready for use.

The focus of this part of the manual is on starting a Family Information Management System (FIMS). The purpose of FIMS is to provide a system for coding and storing the information obtained from the Family Interview Schedule. The four data preparation tasks described above - editing, coding, punching, and computer editing - are essential steps in implementing FIMS. Once these steps are completed, family information will be available and accessible by the school's computer software.

Coding

A code book has been developed specifically for the Family Interview Schedule (Appendix J). This code book contains a system of data transfer in which each answer in the interview is turned into a series of numerical codes that can be analyzed by computer. The code book is based on a punch card system. Every card has 80 columns with 10 code positions printed on each column. A hole is punched into the card to correspond to the appropriate numerical code, as described in the code book. Once all the data have been punched onto a set of cards, they can be transformed to a computer file (either a tape or a disk). (Note: It is also possible to punch directly into a computer file. However, the punched card system was used since large, complex data sets can be more easily corrected.)

An important objective of this manual is to provide the necessary hands-on information required to implement family outreach programs. The Family Interview Schedule Code Book was designed to meet this objective. The code book allows the coder to proceed from Part A to Part Q of the Family Interview Schedule, providing detailed directions for coding each question.

There are, however, a number of general directions for coding, which will assist the coder in coding directly onto a standard 80-column code sheet (see Figure 1). The Wisconsin Survey Research Laboratory offers the following directions for coding the Family Interview Schedule:

- 1) Label each coding sheet by writing the project number in the space provided, the coding card number (1-32) in the top left hand corner, and your name in the space labeled "coder."
- 2) The numbers across the top of the coding sheet correspond to the column numbers which appear to the left of each question in the code book.
- 3) Each line of the coding sheet corresponds to one card of a questionnaire. Never code more than one questionnaire on a line and never code more than one card on any one sheet.
- 4) Never leave a square blank unless specifically directed to do so by the code. A code can run a maximum of 80 columns. If, for example, the code runs from columns 1-55 and 76-80; then there must be a number in every square in columns 1-55. The squares corresponding to columns 56-75 would be blank for that deck. The squares corresponding to columns 76-80 must also always have a number in them.

A 10x10 grid of squares, with the last two columns removed, representing a 10x8 matrix.

- 5) Never put more than one number in a square. In a single column code, the number of the code which corresponds to the answer is entered into the square for that column. In a double column code, one coded response covers two columns. The numbers on the code will then be two digits with the first digit going in the first column and the second digit in the second column.

ex. Coding a Double Column Question:

46-47 Q.40 What is (was) your father's occupation?

Response: Doctor

If the appropriate category on the code reads:

06. Doctor, physician, surgeon

The response would be coded:

46	47	48

- 6) "Not appropriate" refers to a particular question or part of a question that did not apply to the respondent and was, therefore not asked. "Not appropriate" is also when more than one response is requested and only one is given. The square assigned to the second response would then be coded, "Not Appropriate," as directed by the code.
- 7) The Family Identification number is the number assigned to the family by outreach staff and is printed on the cover sheet and each page of the Family Interview materials.
- 8) All coding must be done in pencil and it is important to write all numbers legibly.
- 9) Always follow all contingencies carefully. All questions should be coded according to the directions in the code. If a question is not answered because of a previous direction, code the unanswered question Not Appropriate as directed by the code book. If a question was answered when it should not have been, do not code the answer given; code the question Not Appropriate. If a question is not answered that should have been, code the question Not Ascertained.
- 10) When coding, read the question, all of the answer, and all of the code before deciding in which of the coding categories the answer falls. Pick that code which best corresponds to the answer and place the code number in the square for that column.

- 11) If more than one answer was given and only one response is to be coded, code the first response, unless otherwise indicated.
- 12) If only one answer is given and it doesn't fit the code, or all of the answers given do not fit the code, make out a card. If you are not sure as to what to code an answer, make out a card. But always be careful to code something in the assigned square do not leave the square blank. Be sure to put all the requested information on the card and copy the response verbatim.
- 13) If more than one response is being coded, code the responses as they are given, unless otherwise indicated.
- 14) Make out a card for any responses listed that do not fit the code. If there are less than are being coded, code Not Appropriate for the remaining responses unless otherwise directed.

The two exceptions to this are:

- a) When "Don't know" for all remaining responses. However, completely ignore a "Don't know" if the response has a "Don't know" in addition to another response.
- b) When the first response is coded "Not Ascertained," code "Not Ascertained" for all remaining responses. Never code "Not Ascertained" or "Don't know" as a second or third response if something else is coded as the first response.

- 19) If you have any doubts as to what to code a question, code your best choice and make out a card. If you have any questions, do not hesitate to ask an authorized supervisor.

In coding the Family Interview Schedule, it is helpful for coders to review the entire schedule if they have not participated as family interviewers.

Computer Use

Once the Family Interviews have been coded, the data contained in the code sheets is ready for punching or direct transfer onto tape or disk. The family data can then be subject to computer editing and analysis. A variety of statistical program will provide this level of analysis. Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS) is a system of computer programs commonly available to users. An example of an SPSS program that may be used to describe family data is SPSS subprogram FREQUENCIES. FREQUENCIES modes enable the user to calculate a full range of descriptive statistics, and to permanently print the output onto a tape or disk so that copies of the basic reference document can be inexpensively printed off at any time (Nih, Jull, Jenkins, Steinbrenner, & Bent, 1975). A number of other software packages may be used, depending on the needs and resources of the school.

In summary, the description of family data obtained through the Family Interviews is the foundation of FIMS. From this initial description, areas of family need can be identified. Follow-up interviewing of families and entry of this family data into FIMS will allow comparison of family need over time and a mechanism for measuring the effectiveness of family outreach programs.

PART IV

Developing Family Outreach Programs

The goal of a school-based family outreach project is to improve the quality of children's educational programs by addressing the needs of the family to support and extend those educational programs into the home. Families vary in their ability to provide environments for learning and it is these variations that direct the scope and content of family outreach programs.

The Family Interview Schedule has been presented as a basic tool for assessing the family home environment as it relates to children's development. Preliminary results of the family research investigation suggests that the interview taps a number of important status/situational variables and a wide range of family process "domains," i.e., spheres of influence or activity. In the research sample, the following eight aspects of the family when studied in combination appear to be significant in influencing children's intellectual functioning, academic achievement, and affective characteristics:

Process Variables¹

1. Active-Recreational Orientation (FES): The extent to which the family participates in various kinds of recreational and sporting activities.
2. Verbal Skills of Primary Caregiver (PPVT-R): An estimate of the quality of the language environment, as reflected by a measure of receptive vocabulary.
3. Achievement Orientation (FES): The extent to which different types of activities (i.e., school and work) are cast in an achievement oriented or competitive framework.
4. Independence (FES): The extent to which family members are encouraged to be assertive, self-sufficient, to make their own decisions.

¹The Family Environment Scale (FES) Scoring Sheet is given in Appendix I. Materials and scoring instructions for the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test-Revised are available from American Guidance Services, Circle Pines, Minnesota.

5. Organization (FES): Measures how important order and organization are in the family in terms of structuring the family activities, financial planning, and explicitness and clarity in regard to family rules and responsibilities.

Status/Situational Variables²

1. Occupational Status (MSEI Score): A socioeconomic index of the occupational status of the head of household, i.e., parent contributing most to the yearly family income.
2. Availability of Educational Resources in the Home (Post-Interview Observations): A cumulative index of the toys, books, games, and other items, and information sources such as TV, stereo, radio.
3. Quality of the Physical Home Environment (Post-Interview Observations): A cumulative index of the physical amenities and pleasantness of the family's living space, including display of children's works.

These family processes are seen as necessary supports for effective child development. More importantly, when these facilitative processes are absent or ineffective, they represent risks that increase the likelihood of children's school-related problems. Outreach programs directed at eliminating or minimizing these risks may be an effective means of preventing or reducing many learning and behavior problems of children. Equally important, addressing the needs of the family to support children's learning may increase the success of the school's specific educational interventions.

As the school expands its focus to actively include the family, it, in effect, becomes the coordination base and "lead agency" in implementing family outreach programs that will in turn increase the school's own effectiveness in delivering educational services (see Figure 2). Thus, the school can draw from the existing resources of the community in "prescribing" an individualized family program. In the absence of necessary programs, the school can take an active role in encouraging the development of these programs. In some cases, the role of school staff may be reorganized to include family outreach activities. As community involvement is increased, interagency linkages may be established or become more effective.

²Brief instructions and references for determining MSEI scores are given in text and Appendix I. Availability of Educational Resources Worksheet and Post-Interview Observation Scoring Worksheet are also given in Appendix I.

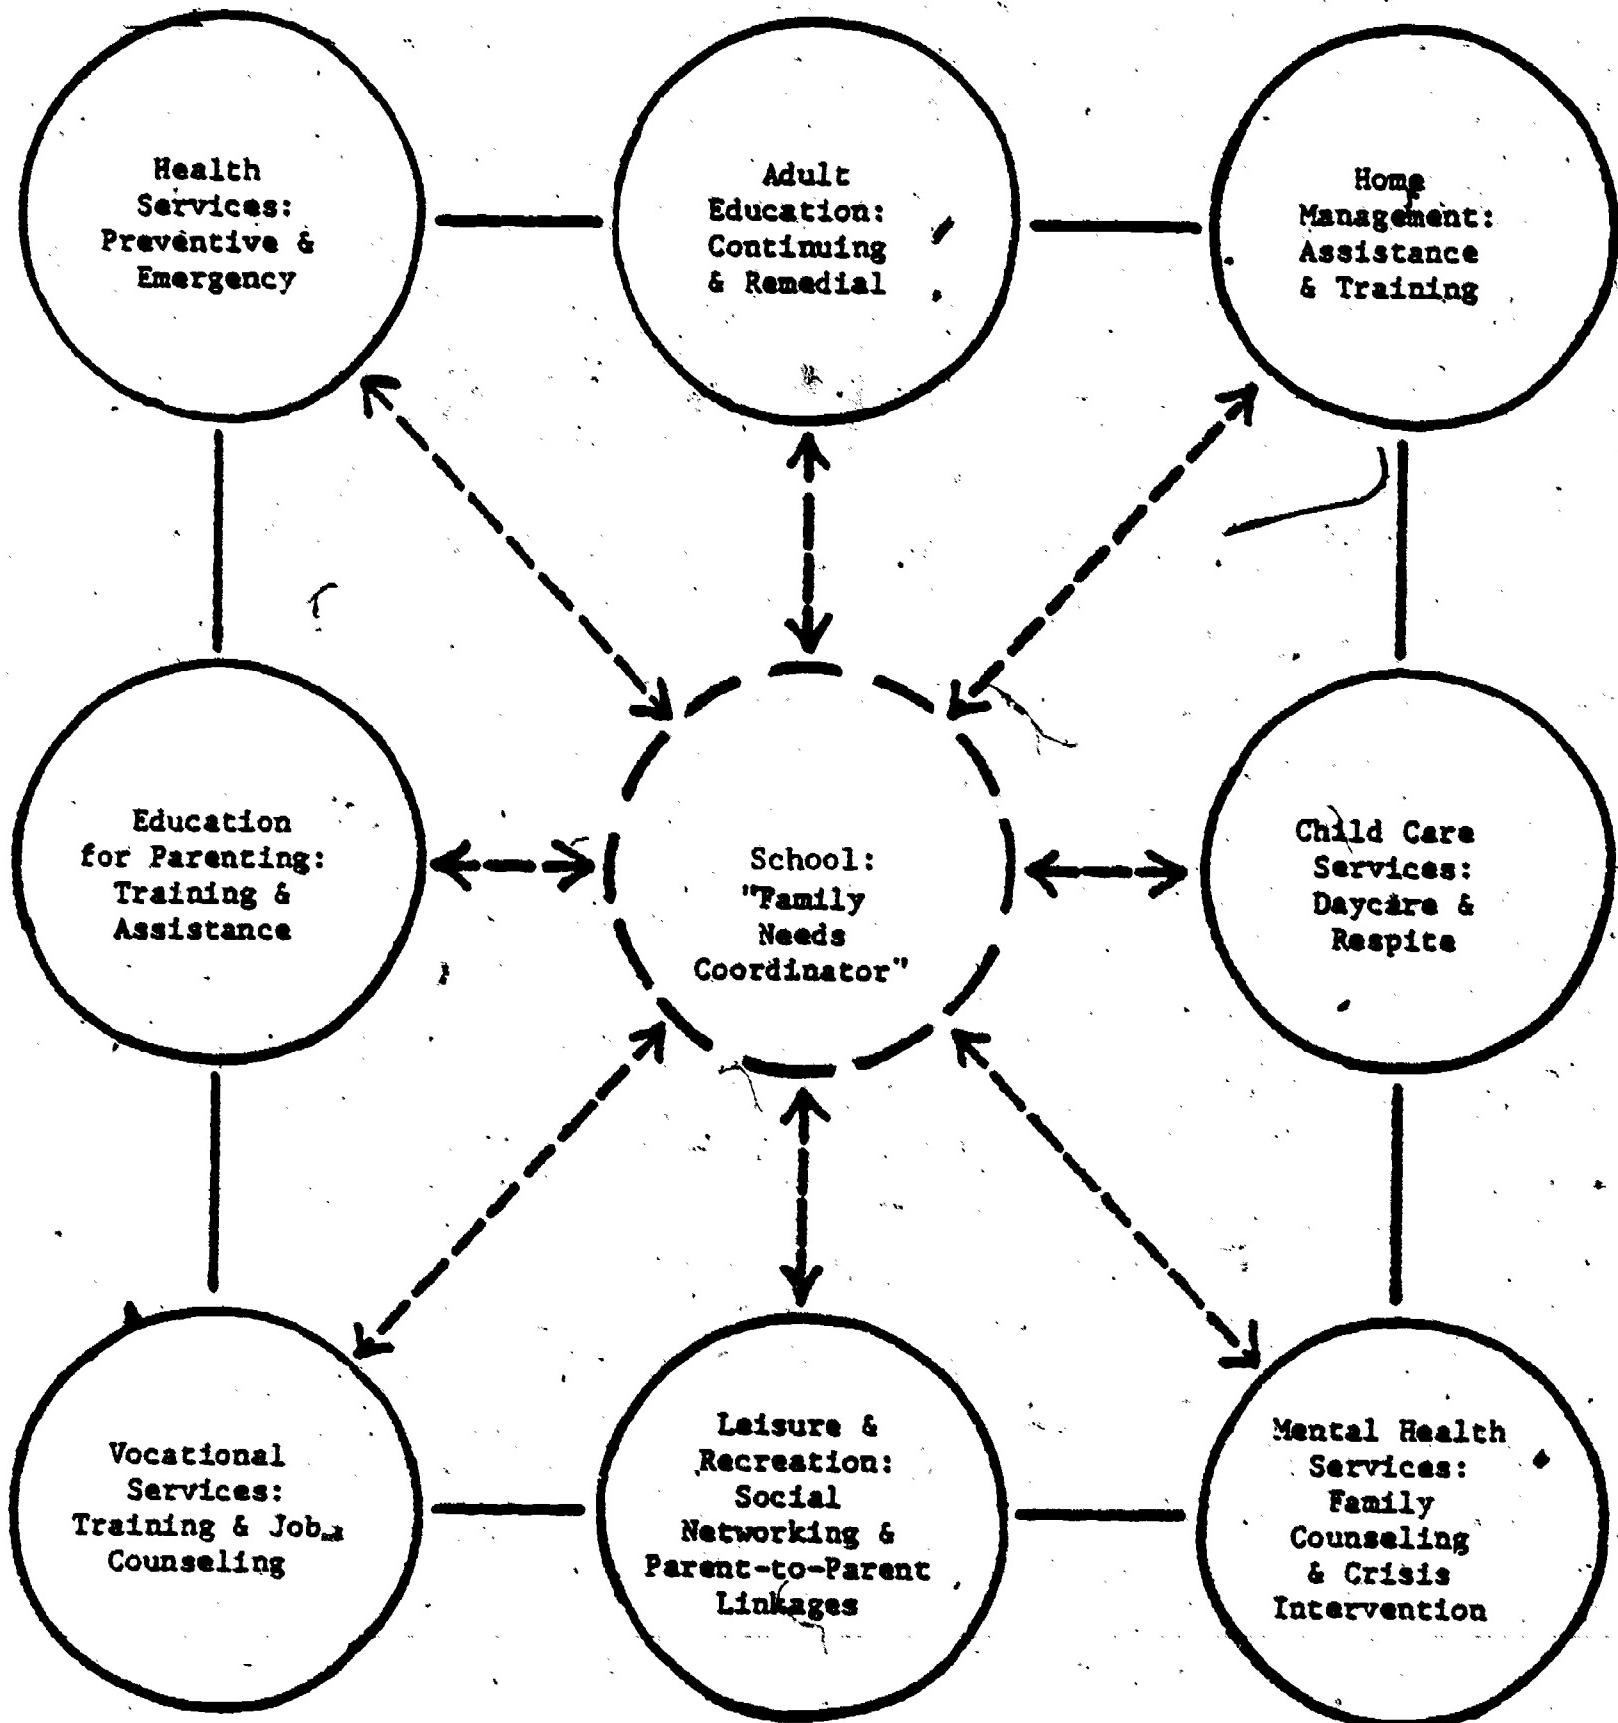

Figure 2. School-Based Outreach and Coordination of Family Support Services

For some high risk families, family outreach efforts may be inappropriate or ineffective and it will be necessary for the schools to program for the special needs of these children. This might involve such things as peer-tutoring, modified homework assignments, or release time for a teacher interested in developing a caring relationship with the child, to name a few. The school is in a position to provide support services to children, to move beyond accepting categorical placement (e.g., EEN, Title I) as a panacea, or to simply regard the child as "another one of the kids from that family," unable to make significant academic or social gains. An attitude toward affecting positive change through flexible and innovative programming must be supported and communicated by the school's administrators and manifest in positive parent outreach and in-school support programs.

Moreover, the school can serve an effective coordination function because it is the single institution that has a longitudinal relationship with the family. Family outreach programs, if they are to be successful in the long term, must be based on the notion of change. Children and families will present different needs at different points in time. Only if we systematically monitor these changes will we be able to accurately identify the emergence of new needs and implement or change the sequence and mix of services. By carefully identifying the needs of children and their families, the targeting of services is likely to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the service delivery system. The Family Information System described in Part III suggests one way of coding and accessing family data in order to monitor change.

In summary, the school is in a position to involve parents in the education of their children through prescriptive family outreach programs. The delineation of important family processes offers a starting point for more intensive inquiry into family learning environments. Information collected through the Family Interview Schedule provides a preliminary basis for assessing what families need in order to create more facilitative learning environments for children. A system for transferring family data for computer use has also been presented.

MEMO TO TEACHERS

FAMILY OUTREACH PROJECT

During the remainder of the school year we, along with four other communities, will be working with the University of Wisconsin in conducting a study of families -- parents and their school-age children. The goal of this project is to determine ways of drawing the school and community closer and, specifically, how to further bring parents into the education of their children. We want to determine the needs of families as they relate to the education of their children and to use this information to plan more effective preventive and rehabilitative programs in schools and communities. In order to develop this information we will be asking broad and specific interest questions about family activities, parent attitudes and skills, and other aspects of family life.

Family information will be obtained through in-home interviews and in-school interviews and testing of children. Family participation is strictly voluntary. Written parent consent for child interviewing and testing will be requested from each participating family. Upon consent, the U.W. research team* will inform you of children they would like to see and make arrangements for appropriate release time, totaling approximately three hours.

If you would like more information about the project, please contact (appropriate school personnel).

AGENCY SUMMARY SHEET

In an effort to develop a registry of services, pertinent data concerning community agencies should be documented. Please fill out the following summary of service variables as they relate to your particular agency.*

- A. Eligibility Requirements - refers to the clientele served by the agency, e.g., Medicaid recipients.
- B. Cost - refers to fees or other charges which must come from outside the agency itself.
- C. Time Lapse Between Referral and Service Delivery - Efficiency of service delivery will influence agency usefulness.
- D. Information Requested at Referral - Prerequisite knowledge of agency requests and supplying that information upon contact will enhance expediency and relations.
- E. Relative Emphasis on Episodic, Periodic or Longitudinal Services - Agency service priorities will also influence usefulness.

*Number and kind of variables can be easily expanded.

FAMILY SURVEY INTERVIEW

INTRODUCTION

To the Parent:

Hello, _____ My name is _____. I'm working with the cooperative project involving the _____ public schools and the University of Wisconsin.

Recently, each family in the area with school-age children received a letter from the schools explaining the project. If you haven't received the letter or don't recall exactly what it said, I'd like to tell you a little about the project.

The _____ school system places great value on quality education programs. They are constantly concerned with how the public schools can continue to improve their programs and better coordinate with other community programs. Many people in the _____ public schools and at the University believe that a better understanding of families will help to provide information that will lead to a better school experience for each child and better community experiences for families.

A large number of families with children in different school programs were selected for the project . . . Families with children in the regular school program, in programs for the talented and gifted, and in programs for special needs, to name a few.

We would like to learn more about your family . . . more about YOUR attitudes, interests, and skills and more about the attitudes, interests, and skills of other members of your family. I would like to emphasize that everything we talk about and do together will remain STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. The only thing that identifies your family by name is this cover sheet (SHOW). Each family is assigned a number code (POINT). The cover sheet will be removed after our visits. Only the code will appear on the interview forms. We are interested in general in what large groups of people feel and do and would not be emphasizing you or your family.

If at any time you feel a question is an invasion of your privacy, feel free to not answer. You reserve the right to "pass" on anything I might ask.

If you have any questions about the project, we urge you to contact your school principal.

Shall we begin?

Adult other than Mother/Mother Figure or
 Father/Father Figure
 (NAME _____)

COMPLETE PARTS H (1st), M (2nd), N (3rd), J (4th), P (5th; "OUR FAMILY SCALE ONLY"), and O (6th; TASK ONLY).*

No Secondary Caregiver

3. (ASK ONLY IF A FATHER/FATHER FIGURE HAS NOT BEEN INDICATED AS A CAREGIVER)
 Is there a father or father figure living here?

Father/Father Figure
 (NAME _____)

COMPLETE PARTS G (1st), M (2nd), N (3rd), J (4th), P (5th; "OUR FAMILY SCALE ONLY"), and O (6th; TASK ONLY).*

Father/Father Figure part of family unit but lives elsewhere (WHERE? _____).

No Father/Father Figure

THE PRIMARY CAREGIVER IS THE MAIN RESPONDENT FOR THE INTERVIEW SCHEDULE. STILL IN THE MAJORITY OF FAMILIES, THE PRIMARY CAREGIVER IS THE MOTHER/MOTHER FIGURE. FOR PURPOSES OF THIS STUDY, THE MOTHER/MOTHER FIGURE WILL BE ASKED TO COMPLETE ALL OR MOST PARTS OF THE INTERVIEW SCHEDULE, REGARDLESS OF WHETHER SHE HAS MAJOR OR SHARED RESPONSIBILITY FOR CAREGIVING. A FATHER/FATHER FIGURE WHO TRULY IS THE MAJOR CARETAKER WILL BE ASKED TO COMPLETE ALL OR MOST PARTS OF THE INTERVIEW SCHEDULE, AS INDICATED ABOVE.

IF A SECONDARY CAREGIVER IS PRESENT, IT WILL MOSTLY LIKELY BE THE FATHER/FATHER FIGURE. HE WILL BE ASKED TO COMPLETE CERTAIN PARTS OF THE INTERVIEW SCHEDULE, AS INDICATED ABOVE. PRIORITIES HAVE BEEN GIVEN TO THE INFORMATION TO BE OBTAINED FROM THE FATHER/FATHER FIGURE SINCE INTERVIEW TIME MAY BE MORE LIMITED.

IN SOME FAMILIES, AN ADULT OTHER THAN THE MOTHER/MOTHER FIGURE OR FATHER/FATHER FIGURE MAY SHARE RESPONSIBILITY FOR CAREGIVING. FOR EXAMPLE, THIS MIGHT OCCUR IN A FAMILY MADE UP OF CHILDREN, THEIR MOTHER, AND THE MATERNAL GRANDMOTHER, WHERE THE GRANDMOTHER IS A SECONDARY CAREGIVER. SHE WILL BE ASKED TO COMPLETE CERTAIN PARTS OF THE INTERVIEW SCHEDULE, AS INDICATED ABOVE. AGAIN, PRIORITIES HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED.

A FATHER/FATHER FIGURE WHO IS PRESENT IN THE HOME BUT WHO IS NOT INDICATED AS A CAREGIVER WILL ALSO BE ASKED TO COMPLETE CERTAIN PARTS OF THE INTERVIEW AS INDICATED ABOVE. AGAIN, PRIORITIES HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED.

Part B. Child Information (RECORD RESPONSES ON APPROPRIATE RECORDING GRID)

General Child Information (RECORD RESPONSES ON GRID #1)

Now I'd like to ask you a few questions about each of your children.

1. First, I'd like you to tell me the first name of each of your children. Please include children who are living at home with you and children who are not living at home at this time. (RECORD IN COLUMN 1; FOR EACH CHILD LISTED ASK QUESTIONS 2 THROUGH 10.)
2. What is his/her sex? (CIRCLE M FOR MALE OR F FOR FEMALE IN COLUMN 2.)
3. Is (NAME) your child by birth (B), your child through adoption (A), a foster child (F), or a relative (R)? (CIRCLE APPROPRIATE LETTER IN COLUMN 3: IF CHILD IS RESPONDENT'S CHILD BY BIRTH, ASK 3a; IF CHILD IS NOT RELATED TO RESPONDENT BY BIRTH, ASK 3b.)
 - 3a. Is (NAME) your first-born, second-born, third-born, etc.? (RECORD ORDINAL POSITION BELOW DIAGONAL)
 - 3b. How long has (NAME) been living with you? (RECORD LENGTH OF TIME BELOW DIAGONAL)
4. When was (NAME) born? (RECORD MONTH/DAY/YEAR IN COLUMN 4)
5. COMPUTE AGE FOLLOWING INTERVIEW BASED ON CHILD'S BIRTHDAY AND DATE OF INTERVIEW.
6. What was the last grade (NAME) completed in school?
7. Is/Was (NAME) in a regular school program (R), a special help program (S), a program for gifted or talented students (G), a preschool program (P) (NOTE IF PRESCHOOL, NURSERY, OR DAY CARE IN SPACE BELOW), or other type (O)? (CIRCLE APPROPRIATE LETTER CODE IN COLUMN 7; IF CHILD IS/WAS IN A SPECIAL HELP (S) OR OTHER TYPE OF PROGRAM (O) ASK 7a.)
 - 7a. What kind of program is/was (NAME) enrolled in? (RECORD RESPONSE -- PARENT'S PERCEPTION OF PROGRAM -- IN COLUMN 7.)
8. (ASK FOR CHILD IN SCHOOL ONLY) What is the name of the school (NAME) now attends? (RECORD IN COLUMN 8.)
9. Is (NAME) presently working or enrolled in school or training programs? (IF YES, ASK FOR JOB, SCHOOL, OR TRAINING PROGRAM; RECORD IN COLUMN 9.)
10. Does (NAME) live here at home with you? (IF NO, ASK WHERE THEY LIVE; RECORD IN COLUMN 10.)

Specific Child Information (RECORD RESPONSES ON GRID #2; CIRCLE THE NUMBER CODE THAT COMES CLOSEST TO THE GIVEN RESPONSE; SPECIFY RESPONSES WHERE INDICATED BELOW NUMBER CODES: USE PAST TENSE FOR CHILDREN NO LONGER IN SCHOOL)

Now I'd like to ask you some things about just the children that are living at home.

1. TRANSFER NAMES OF CHILDREN WHO ARE LIVING AT HOME TO GRID #2 FROM GRID # 1 (COLUMN 10)
2. Did (NAME) attend a preschool, nursery, day care, or Headstart program? (CIRCLE YES OR NO IN COLUMN 2)
3. How much education do/did you want (NAME) to receive? (RECORD RESPONSE IN COLUMN 3)
 - 1. Postgraduate education (a higher degree)
 - 2. Graduate from University (a first degree)
 - 3. At least some University
 - 4. High school plus some vocational training
4. How much education do/did you expect (NAME) to receive? (RECORD RESPONSE IN COLUMN 4)

 - 2. Graduate from University (a first degree)
 - 3. At least some University
 - 4. High school plus some vocational training
5. What about jobs? What kinds of jobs would you like (NAME) to have? (RECORD RESPONSE, INCLUDING NAME OF JOB DESIRED, IN COLUMN 5)
 - 1. Job requiring postgraduate education (doctor, dentist, lawyer, scientist, etc.)
 - 2. Job requiring university degree (teacher, engineer, CPA, architect)
 - 3. Parents have high educational expectations (See Q4) and they state that "it is up to the child to decide"
 - 4. Job requiring high school graduation and some vocational training
 - 5. Job requiring some high school education
 - 6. Job requiring little education, or parents have low educational expectations (See Q4) and they state that "it is up to the child to decide"
 - 7. Other answer (Specify)

Part D. Family Activities*

(HAND RESPONDENT PARENT ANSWER FORM BOOKLET) In this booklet are answer forms that we will be using at different times during the interview. These forms will be kept confidential. All forms will be identified by code. (POINT TO CODE BOX) No names will be put on any forms.

We're interested in understanding more about your family...the kinds of activities you take part in, the way you feel about your schools, and questions like these. Frank answers to questions will help us get to know you better, and we hope, will help schools to improve their programs for children. Please turn to Page 1 in your booklet. Here are some examples of how to answer the question, "How important is it that your children learn to swim?" If "very important" tells best how you would answer this question, your answer would look like Example #1. If "unimportant" tells best how you would answer this question, " your answer would look like Example #2. If you think it is "somewhat important" that you children learn to swim, your answer would look like Example #3. If you think learning to swim is "somewhat unimportant," your answer would look like Example #4. If you feel your answer would fall about halfway between these extremes of very important and unimportant, you would mark the middle blank, as shown in Example #5.

The choice of answers for each of the questions I'm going to ask are different than these examples, but the idea is the same. You place your "X" in one of the blanks to show how you would answer the question.

Now turn to Page 2 of your booklet. I will read each question aloud while you mark your answer in the booklet. Think about each question as it concerns your children in general. If the way you would answer would be very different for a particular child, tell me how it would be different. (IF THIS OCCURS, OBTAIN A RESPONSE FOR CHILDREN IN GENERAL. THEN INDICATE BELOW THE QUESTION, FOR WHOM IT WOULD BE DIFFERENT AND THE RESPONSE IN TERMS OF THE PARTICULAR CHILD. ALSO RECORD OTHER COMMENTS BELOW EACH QUESTION.)

INTERVIEWER READS QUESTIONS AND ENDS OF THE RESPONSE CONTINUUM WHILE RESPONDENT MARKS IN BOOKLET.

The first question is...

1. Not counting what happens at school, how often do your children go to the library, or a museum, or someplace like that?

Once a week : : : : Less than once a year

Yes No

10. Do you have child care, if needed, to enable you to go to these meetings?

Yes

No

10a. Who would care for your child(ren)?

10b. Would you like the schools to provide this service or help you find someone?

Yes No Don't know

Getting an idea of what happens or how often something happens is only part of the "family picture." We are also as interested in knowing some of your opinions on raising and educating children.*

(SHOW CARD #2) On this card are five facial expressions and a number that goes with each one. I'm going to read aloud some statements and would like you to tell me how much you agree or disagree with each statement. Tell me #1 if you strongly disagree with the statement; #2 if you disagree somewhat; #3 if you're not sure. Tell me #4 if you agree somewhat with the statement or #5 if you strongly agree. I'll read each statement aloud. After I finish each one, please tell me the number that indicates how much you agree or disagree with the statement.

Part J. Language*

TO CONDUCT THIS PART OF THE SURVEY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWER MUST BE THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH PEABODY PICTURE VOCABULARY TEST - REVISED (PPVT-R) MANUAL AND TEST MATERIALS. YOU WILL NEED PPVT-R FORM L SERIES OF PLATES AND A PPVT-R ANSWER FORM (ONE FORM FOR EACH RESPONDENT) TO PROCEED WITH PART G.

One of the things we're interested in knowing more about is language...the language or words parents and children use to communicate. Pictures are one way of understanding more about the words people use to communicate. I'd like to have you look at some pictures and tell me what they mean to you. We show these pictures to all the children and adults we interview.

TURN TO TRAINING PLATE D.

As you can see there are four pictures on this page. Each of them is numbered.

INDICATE BY POINTING TO AND NUMBERING EACH IN TURN -- 1, 2, 3, AND 4.

I will say a word; then I want you to tell me the number of, or point to, the picture that best tells the meaning of the word. Let's try one. Tell me the number of, or point to, the picture which best tells the meaning of "wheel."

IF THE RESPONDENT MAKES THE DESIRED RESPONSE, TURN TO TRAINING PLATE E. IF THE RESPONDENT CHOOSES THE WRONG ILLUSTRATION, GIVE THE CORRECT CHOICE, EXPLAIN WHY IT IS CORRECT, AND GO TO TRAINING PLATE E.

That's fine. Now, what number is "giant?"

IF THE RESPONDENT MAKES THE DESIRED RESPONSE, TURN TO THE CORRECT STARTING POINT PLATE. IF RESPONDENT CHOOSES THE WRONG ILLUSTRATION, GIVE THE CORRECT CHOICE, EXPLAIN WHY IT IS CORRECT, AND GO ON TO THE NEXT PLATE. OCCASIONALLY, IT MAY BE NECESSARY TO ADMINISTER ADDITIONAL SERIES OF PRACTICE WORDS IN ORDER TO ESTABLISH THE DESIRED RESPONSE PATTERN (*SEE BOX BELOW). IN SUCH CASES, USE AS MANY OF THE ALTERNATE PRACTICE WORDS AS NEEDED, UNTIL THE RESPONDENT CORRECTLY CHOOSES TWO CONSECUTIVE WORDS WITHOUT YOUR HELP. THEN TURN TO THE CORRECT STARTING POINT PLATE AND CONTINUE WITH DIRECTIONS BELOW.

*Directions for administering the PPVT-R have been quoted directly from the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test-Revised-Manual, pp. 15-16 (Dunn & Dunn, 1981). Manual and materials can be purchased from American Guidance Service, Circle Pine, MN.

Fine! Now I'm going to show you some other pictures. Each time I say a word, you say the number of, or point to, the picture which best tells the meaning of the word. As we go through the book you may not be sure you know the meaning of some of the words, but look carefully at all of the pictures anyway and choose the one you think is right. What number is (STARTING POINT WORD)?

CONTINUE TEST ADMINISTRATION ACCORDING TO THE PROCEDURES
PRESENTED IN THE PPVT-R MANUAL.

NOTE: STARTING THE PPVT-R WITH ITEM 110, "ARCHERY," MAY BE TOO DIFFICULT FOR SOME INDIVIDUALS, PARTICULARLY SOMEONE WHO DID NOT FINISH HIGH SCHOOL. YOU CAN USE THE FOLLOWING AS A GENERAL GUIDE: ADD 5 TO THE LAST YEAR OF SCHOOL COMPLETED AND START TESTING WITH THE ITEM CORRESPONDING TO THE SUM, i.e., THE SUM BECOMES AN APPROXIMATE AGE LEVEL FOR THE PERSON'S VOCABULARY SKILLS. FOR EXAMPLE, FOR A PERSON WHO FINISHED THE 10TH GRADE, ADD 5 TO GET A SUM (AGE) OF 15 AND START TESTING AT ITEM 105, "CONTEMPORARY." IN GENERAL, START WITH AN EASIER ITEM IF YOU HAVE REASON TO BELIEVE THE PERSON WILL HAVE DIFFICULTY ESTABLISHING A BASAL.

Part K. Family and Friends

Now I'd like to ask you some questions about your relationships with family and friends. Please turn to Pages 7 and 8 in your booklet.

Task #1

Each numbered box on these pages represents people you feel close to and that you know well. I'll be asking you questions about these people but I am not interested in their names, only how you feel about them. Write down the initials of the people that you feel close to and that you know well. You may fill in as many or as few boxes as you want. (IF RESPONDENT DOES NOT WANT TO WRITE DOWN INITIALS, THEY MAY REFER TO THE PERSON BY THE NUMBER NEXT TO THE BOX OR USE SOME OTHER METHOD, E.G., NICKNAME. INITIALS ARE SOLELY FOR THEIR CONVENIENCE IN RECALLING THE PERSON FOR LATER QUESTIONS. WAIT WHILE RESPONDENT LISTS UP TO 10 PEOPLE.)

Task #2

Next to each person's initials is a box (POINT) for marking whether the person is a friend (not kin) or relative (kin). For each person, circle "R" if the person is a relative or "F" if the person is a friend. (WAIT WHILE RESPONDENT CIRCLES RELATIONSHIP.)

Task #3

Now I'd like you to mark about how often you've either seen or talked to this person in the last month, including talking on the phone. There are four choices. If you haven't seen or talked to them in the last month, circle "zero." The other choices are "one-to-three" times, "four-to-six" times, or "seven-or-more" times. Circle the one that is about the number of contacts you've had with each person. (LETTERS DO NOT COUNT. WAIT WHILE RESPONDENT CIRCLES NUMBER OF CONTACTS.)

Task #4

In the long box with each person's initials are two smaller boxes with the letters A, B, C, D, and E. These letters go with the pictures on this card. (PLACE "FAMILY AND FRIENDS" PICTURE CARD IN VIEW OF RESPONDENT). These pictures illustrate four ways people are important to us and why we feel close to them. (POINT TO THE CORRESPONDING PICTURE AS YOU SAY...) A is for the picture showing people who give us emotional support, that is they help us feel better if something goes wrong or when we are feeling said. B is for the picture showing people who give us advice and help, such as advice on how to raise our children, or perhaps, lend us money when we need it. C is for the picture showing people who let us know we are special or important to them. They let us know they like our company by asking us to do things with them. D is for the picture showing people who help us learn new things and meet new people.

Within the box with each person's initials, there is a box with capital letters (POINT). Circle the letter that describes the way each person is important to you. You can circle more than one letter if it helps to better describe the person. If none of the pictures describe the person, circle E. (WAIT WHILE RESPONDENT CIRCLES LETTERS. KEEP PICTURE CARD IN FRONT OF RESPONDENT FOR THIS AND REMAINING TASKS.)

Task #5

Now that you've thought about the ways people are important to you or why you feel close to them, let's try something else. I'd like you to think about the ways YOU are important to THEM. Use the box with the small letters to describe the ways YOU are important to the people on your list (POINT). Each letter goes with the pictures on this card (POINT TO PICTURE CARD). You can circle more than one letter. If none of the pictures describe the way you feel you are important to the person, circle e. (WAIT WHILE RESPONDENT CIRCLES LETTERS.)

Task #6

There is one last thing I'd like to ask you about the people on your list. Does each person on your list know at least one other person on your list? This includes knowing them by name, appearance, or through some stronger relationship, e.g., friendship, family relation, business relation.

(GO TO PART L)

- 6a. How many people do not know at least one other person on your list? _____ (#)

COMMENTS _____

NOTE: FROM THE QUESTIONS ABOUT MARITAL HISTORY, GENERAL DISCUSSION OR FROM INFORMATION OBTAINED IN PART K. FAMILY AND FRIENDS, THERE MAY BE REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THE PARENTS ARE RELATED. IF SO, PROBE: "ARE YOU RELATED TO YOUR HUSBAND/PARTNER? FOR EXAMPLE, IS HE YOUR COUSIN?" RECORD RESPONSES IN THE MARGINS OF THE MARITAL STATUS PAGES.

Part M. Reading/Everyday Activities in Life*

TO CONDUCT THIS PART OF THE SURVEY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWED MUST BE THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH THE READING/EVERYDAY ACTIVITIES IN LIFE (R/EAL) MANUAL AND TEST MATERIALS. YOU WILL NEED A R/EAL TEST BOOKLET, A R/EAL CASSETTE, AND A CASSETTE PLAYER TO PROCEED WITH PART M.

We're interested in learning more about both children's and adults' reading skills. Would you be willing to take a short reading test?

IF RESPONDENT REFUSES, GO TO PART N. IF RESPONDENT AGREES, CONTINUE WITH THE INSTRUCTIONS BELOW.

(SHOW RESPONDENT R/EAL BOOKLET, CASSETTE, AND CASSETTE PLAYER.) The R/EAL is a short adult reading test. All the information you need to understand what is to be done in taking the R/EAL is described on this cassette. (FIRST SHOW CASSETTE THEN PLACE CASSETTE IN CASSETTE PLAYER. EXPLAIN HOW TO OPERATE THE CASSETTE PLAYER SO RESPONDENT CAN COMPLETE THE TEST AT HIS/HER OWN PACE)

Now you're ready to take the R/EAL.

ALLOW RESPONDENT SUFFICIENT TIME TO COMPLETE THE TEST. BE AVAILABLE FOR POSSIBLE QUESTIONS. AFTER TEST IS COMPLETED ASK:

Do you have any comments about the reading test? _____

*The R/EAL was developed by Lichtman (1972). Manual and materials can be purchased from Westwood Press, Inc., New York, NY.

RESPONDENT: Mother/Mother Figure _____

Part N. Personal Feelings and Beliefs*

We've talked a lot about your children and family. I would like to take this time to get a better idea of how you think about certain things. If you turn to Page 10 of your booklet, you'll see questions that ask what you think, feel, and believe about different things. For each question you are to circle either "Yes" or "No" depending on how you feel.

I will read each question aloud. Please put an "X" on either "Yes" or "No" to each question in your booklet. (IF RESPONDENT ASKS THE QUESTION, "WHAT SHOULD I DO IF I CAN ANSWER BOTH YES AND NO TO QUESTION...?" ASSURE THE RESPONDENT THAT THIS IS NOT AN UNUSUAL HAPPENING AND TELL HIM/HER THAT ~~IF IT IS A LITTLE MORE YES THAN NO, THEN ANSWER YES; IF IT IS A LITTLE MORE NO THAN YES THEN ANSWER NO.~~)

INTERVIEWER READS ITEMS WHILE RESPONDENT MARKS IN BOOKLET.

The first question is:

1. Do you believe that most problems will solve themselves if you just don't fool with them?
2. Do you believe that you can stop yourself from catching a cold?
3. Are some people just born lucky?
4. While in school, most of the time did you feel that getting good grades meant a great deal to you?
5. Are you often blamed for things that just aren't your fault?
6. Do you believe that if a student studies hard enough he or she can pass any subject?
7. Do you feel that most of the time it doesn't pay to try hard because things never turn out right anyway?
8. Do you feel that if things start out well in the morning it's going to be a good day no matter what you do?
9. Do you feel that most of the time parents listen to what their children have to say?
10. Do you believe that wishing can make good things happen?
11. When people criticize or deal harshly with you, does it usually seem it's for no good reason at all?

*Items 1 through 40 comprise the Locus of Control Scale for Adults (Nowicki & Duke, 1974). Manual and materials can be obtained from Stephen Nowicki, Jr., Dept. of Psychology, Emory University, Atlanta, GA.

12. Most of the time do you find it hard to change a friend's (mind) opinion?
13. Do you think that cheering more than luck helps a team to win?
14. Did you feel that it was nearly impossible to change your parent's mind about anything?
15. Do you believe that parents should allow children to make most of their own decisions?
16. Do you feel that when you do something wrong there's very little you can do to make it right?
17. Do you believe that most people are just born good at sports?
18. Are most of the other people your age stronger than you are?
19. Do you feel that one of the best ways to handle most problems is just not to think about them?
20. Do you feel that you have a lot of choice in deciding who your friends are?
21. If you find a four leaf clover, do you believe it might bring you good luck?
22. While in school did you often feel that whether or not you did your homework had much to do with what kind of grades you got?
23. Do you feel that when a person your age is angry at you, there's little you can do to stop him or her?
24. Have you ever had a good luck charm?
25. Do you believe that whether or not people like you depends on how you act?
26. Did your parents usually help you if you asked them to?
27. Have you felt that when people were angry with you it was usually for no reason at all?
28. Most of the time, do you feel that you can change what might happen tomorrow by what you do today?
29. Do you believe that when bad things are going to happen they just are going to happen no matter what you try to do to stop them?
30. Do you think people can get their own way if they just keep trying?
31. Most of the time do you find it useless to try to get your own way at home?

32. Do you feel that when good things happen they happen because of hard work?
33. Do you feel that when somebody your age wants to be your enemy there's little you can do to change matters?
34. Do you feel that it's easy to get friends to do what you want them to do?
35. Did you usually feel that you had little to say about what you had for meals at home?
36. Do you feel that when someone doesn't like you there's little you can do about it?
37. Did you usually feel that it was almost useless to try in school because most other children were just plain smarter than you were?
38. Are you the kind of person who believes that planning ahead makes things turn out better?
39. Most of the time, do you feel that you have little to say about what your family decides to do?
40. Do you think it's better to be smart than to be lucky?

Part O. Problem-Solving Task*

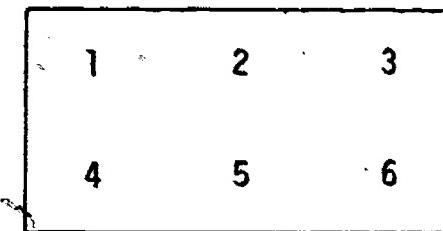

TO CONDUCT THIS PART OF THE INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWER MUST BE THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH THE MATCHING FAMILIAR FIGURES TEST (MFFT) INSTRUCTIONS AND TEST MATERIALS. YOU WILL NEED THE MFFT SERIES OF PLATES AND A STOPWATCH TO PROCEED WITH PART O.

Now I would like to do something with you that is a little different. Another thing we would like to learn more about is how children and adults approach problems. In some ways this task is like a game. Shall we try it?

IF RESPONDENT REFUSES, GO TO PART P. IF RESPONDENT AGREES, TURN TO PRACTICE PLATE A -- CUP.

I am going to show you a picture of something you know and then some pictures that look like it. You will have to point (POINT) to the picture on this bottom page that is just like the one on this top page (POINT). Let's do some for practice.

SHOW PRACTICE PLATES A -- CUP AND PRACTICE PLATE B -- RULER. HELP RESPONDENT FIND THE CORRECT ANSWER. THE NUMBERING OF THE PLATE FOR SCORING IS ILLUSTRATED BELOW. THE CORRECT ANSWER FOR PLATE A IS #4; PLATE B IS #6.

(RESPONDENT'S VIEW)

Now we are going to do some that are a little bit harder. You will see a picture on top and six pictures on the bottom. Find the one that is just like the one on top and point it out.

*Directions for administering the MFFT have been quoted directly from the Instructions accompanying the MFFT Picture Plates (Kagan, 1965). MFFT materials can be obtained from Jerome Kagan, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA.

TIMING: RECORD THE AMOUNT OF TIME IT TAKES FOR THE RESPONDENT TO GIVE HIS/HER FIRST RESPONSE TO THE STIMULUS PICTURE (LATENCY). RECORD THE TIME TO THE NEAREST HALF SECOND.

RECORDING: ON THE RESPONSE FORM (1) LATENCY TO FIRST RESPONSE, (2) NUMBER (1-6) OF FIRST RESPONSE, AND (3) SUBSEQUENT RESPONSE NUMBERS IN SEQUENCE.

IF RESPONDENT IS CORRECT, PRAISE WITH WORDS LIKE "GOOD" OR "GOOD JOB." IF RESPONDENT IS WRONG, SAY "WHY DON'T YOU TRY AGAIN." FIND THE ONE THAT IS JUST LIKE THIS ONE." (POINT TO THE STIMULUS PICTURE). CONTINUE TO CODE RESPONSES (NOT TIMES) UNTIL RESPONDENT MAKES A MAXIMUM OF SIX ERRORS OR GETS THE ITEM CORRECT. AFTER SIX INCORRECT ITEMS SHOW HIM/HER THE CORRECT ANSWER.

AFTER COMPLETING THE TASK WITH THE RESPONDENT, CONTINUE FOLLOW-UP Q's 13 THROUGH 18 ONLY FOR MOTHER/MOTHER FIGURE (OR OTHER PRIMARY CARETAKER).

Part P. Our Family*

Since the focus of this project is to better understand families, I'd like to take this last opportunity to talk a little more about your family. On Page 13 of your booklet are some statements about families. You are to decide which of the statements are True about your family and which are False. If you think a statement is True or Mostly True of your family, put an "X" on T. If you think the statement is False or Mostly False of your family put an "X" on F.

Circle either True or False based on what your family most seems like to YOU. You need not try to figure out how other members see your family. We want YOUR impressions. I will read the statement aloud. Please put an "X" on T for True or F for False for each statement.

INTERVIEWER READS ITEMS WHILE RESPONDENT MARKS IN BOOKLET.

1. Family members really help and support one another.
2. Family members often keep their feelings to themselves.
3. We fight a lot in our family.
4. We don't do things on our own very often in our family.
5. We feel it is important to be the best at whatever you do.
6. We often talk about political and social problems.
7. We spend most weekends and evenings at home.
8. Family members attend church, synagogue, or Sunday school fairly often.
9. Activities in our family are pretty carefully planned.
10. Family members are rarely ordered around.
11. We often seem to be killing time at home.
12. We say anything we want to around home.
13. Family members rarely become openly angry.
14. In our family, we are strongly encouraged to be independent.
15. Getting ahead in life is very important in our family.
16. We rarely go to lectures, plays or concerts.

*Items 1 through 40 comprise the short form of the Family Environment Scale (Moos, 1974). Manual and materials can be purchased from Consulting Psychologists Press, Palo Alto, CA. Reprinted with permission.

17. Friends often come over for dinner or to visit.
18. We don't say prayers in our family.
19. We are generally very neat and orderly.
20. There are very few rules to follow in our family.
21. We put a lot of energy into what we do at home.

27. Nobody in our family is active in sports, little league, bowling, etc.
28. We often talk about the religious meaning of Christmas, Passover, or other holidays.
29. It's often hard to find things when you need them in our household.
30. There is one family member who makes most of the decisions.
31. There is a feeling of togetherness in our family.
32. We tell each other about our personal problems.
33. Family members hardly ever lose their tempers.
34. We come and go as we want to in our family.
35. We believe in competition and "may the best man win."
36. We are not that interested in cultural activities..
37. We often go to movies, sports events, camping, etc.
38. We don't believe in heaven or hell.
39. Being on time is very important in our family.
40. There are set ways of doing things at home.

I'd like to ask you a little more about some things that were just mentioned. The first few questions are about rules.

41. What kinds of rules or regulations do you have in your family? (CHECK ITEMS GIVEN BY RESPONDENT; WRITE DOWN OTHER RULES NOT LISTED.)

| <input type="checkbox"/> Father/Father Figure | <input type="checkbox"/> Rules mutually arrived at by children and parents |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Other Adult (Specify) _____ | <input type="checkbox"/> Other (Specify) _____ |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Parents/Adults set rules without consulting children | _____ |

43. How are rules enforced? What happens if a rule is broken? (RECORD RESPONSE)

44. When children break rules or misbehave, parents react in different ways. Consider the following situation:

Kathy and her brother Jim are arguing about what TV show to watch. They cannot agree on the same program and their voices get louder as they continue to argue. Jim goes to the TV and turns the channel to the program he wants to watch. Kathy throws a pillow at him, but hits the lamp instead. It shatters into pieces. You have been watching the whole time.

- 44a. What are all the things you might do? _____

- 44b. Are there some things other parents might do? _____

- 44c. Which one of these things would you do? _____

- 44d. Why would you do that? _____

- 44e. What would happen then? _____

45. (ASK FOR TWO-PARENT/PARTNER FAMILIES ONLY.) Next, I'd like to ask you about family problem-solving. All families have disagreements but they differ in how they show it and what they do about it. Consider the following situation:

Your grandmother is visiting and you have planned a large family dinner. Everyone in the family is to be home for dinner at 6:00 p.m. One of your children is out with his friends and arrives as you are serving dessert. Your spouse/partner insists that the child go to his room without dinner and stay there the rest of the evening. You insist that you want him to spend time with his grandmother since she's only visiting a short time.

- 45a. What are all the things you might do? _____

- 45b. Are there some things other people might do? _____

- 45c. Which one of these things would you do? _____

- 45d. Why would you do that? _____

45e. What would happen then? _____

Now I have some questions about yourself as a parent.

46. In general, do you find being a parent easy or difficult? _____

47. What things about yourself help you to "stay on top of things?"

48. Are there things that make it hard for you to cope (e.g., day-to-day things that cause you a lot of stress)? _____

49. (ASK FOR TWO-PARENT/PARTNER FAMILIES ONLY.) How about your spouse/partner? Is there anything about him/her that makes things easier or harder in terms of bringing up your children (e.g., special interests, abilities, personal characteristics)?

- 49a. Parents often have different views on how to bring up their children. What about you and your spouse/partner? Are there specific things you agree or disagree about when it comes to raising children?

50. We're coming to the end of the interview now. We've talked a lot about you, your family, the schools and the community. You've told me a great deal about your experiences as a parent in a number of areas. As you think about it now, what do you see as the most important source of help to you as a parent?

51. What do you see as the most serious problem for you as a parent?

52. Are there any comments you would like to make about any of the things we've talked about and done together?

THANK YOU!

READING/EVERYDAY ACTIVITIES FOR LIFE (R/EAL)*

Overview

R/EAL was developed to assess functional literacy. The content of R/EAL is based on the concept that functional literacy relates directly to reading experiences encountered in daily living. The test is made up of nine subtests selected as representative of general categories of common printed material. The categories include: signs and labels; schedules and tables; sets of directions; high-interest, factual narrative; illustrated advertisements; technical documents; maps; categorized listings and indices; and fill-in-blank form. R/EAL consists of nine reading selections chosen to represent each of these categories. The respondent is asked to read each selection and answer five questions for each which are based on a task analysis of the skills required to deal with each selection. R/EAL can be self-administered, self-directed, and self-paced by audio input (instructions on a cassette) or administered orally by the examiner.

Directions for Oral Administration - Excerpt (R/EAL Examiner's Manual, p. 12)

Examiner: R/EAL is a test of your ability to read materials you often find in daily life. Included in this booklet are nine reading activities, such as reading sections from the newspaper, locating information on a map, and following directions for preparing food. During the test you will be asked to read these materials and answer questions about what you have read.

For this part of the test I will ask questions about the road signs you see along the highway. Write your answers on page 3. Remember, I will say each question twice. Question 1. What is the number of the sign that tells the divided highway ends? Repeat. Question 2. What sign tells you to give the right of way to the other car? Repeat. Question 3. Which sign tells where people cross the street? Repeat. Question 4. What sign tells about the condition of the road during bad weather? Repeat. Question 5. Which sign describes the conditions along the side of the road? Repeat. This completes the first part of the test. You should have written an answer or an X for each of the five questions. There should be no empty lines on your answer page.

Answer Booklet Description

For each of the nine subtests, a subtest illustration, narrative, or form is provided. For example, the road signs subtest (excerpted above) consists of an illustration of ten road signs and a road signs answer sheet consisting of five numbered blank lines.

MATCHING FAMILIAR FIGURES TEST
INSTRUCTIONS AND
DESCRIPTION OF PICTURE PLATES

MATCHING FAMILIAR FIGURES TEST (MFFT)*

Overview

The MFFT was designed as a measurement of reflection-impulsivity in cognitive problem-solving. The MFFT is a match-to-sample task consisting of a standard ink drawing of a figure, accompanied by an array of six very similar drawings, one of which is an exact copy of the standard. The other five drawings differ from the standard in a single, unique, and identifiable detail. There are two practice items and twelve test items in the standard MFFT. Impulsive individuals are conventionally defined as those scoring below the sample median in mean latency to first response and above the sample median in total errors.

Directions for Administration (Manual for the MFFT, p. 1)

"I am going to show you a picture of something you know and then some pictures that look like it. You will have to point to the picture on this bottom page (point) that is just like the one on this top page (point). Let's do some for practice." E shows practice items and helps the child to find the correct answer.
"Now we are going to do some that are a little bit harder. You will see a picture on top and six pictures on the bottom. Find the one that is just like the one on top and point to it."

E will record latency to first response to the half-second, total number of errors for each item and the order in which the errors are made. If S is correct, E will praise. If wrong, E will say, "No, that is not the right one. Find the one that is just like this one (point)." Continue to code responses (not times) until child makes a maximum of six errors or gets the item correct. If incorrect, E will show the right answer.

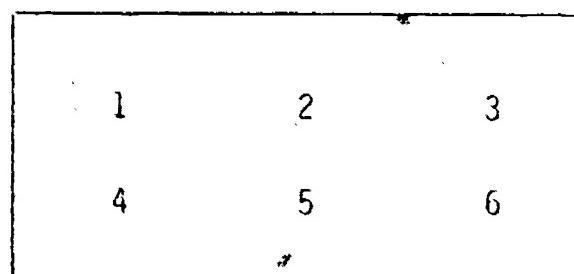

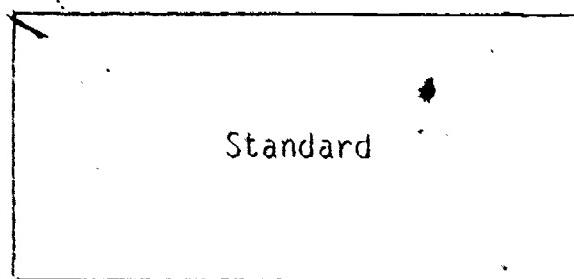

It is necessary to have a stand to place the test booklet on so that both the stimulus and the alternatives are clearly visible to the S at the same time. The two pages should be practically at right angles to one another. Note: It is desirable to enclose each page in clear plastic in order to keep the pages clean.

Description of Picture Plates

The respondent is shown two sample items and 12 test items in the manner illustrated below. The standard and the six possible match-to-sample items are pictured on 8½" x 11" pieces of white paper. The twelve items include: house, scissors, phone, bear, tree, leaf, cat, dress, giraffe, lamp, boat, and cowboy. The items are presented in increasing order of difficulty.

*Kagan, J. Manual for the Matching Familiar Figures Test. J. Kagan, Harvard University, 1965.

NUMBER OF HOME VISITS MADE BY INTERVIEWER ____ (#)

LIST FAMILY MEMBERS OBSERVED DURING VISITS _____

Part Q. Post-Interview Observations

On the basis of the completed survey interview schedule, rate the family on the following scales. Wait until you have departed from the residence, but do the ratings promptly while the last interview is still in your mind. Please make additional comments where you feel you can increase our understanding of a particular aspect of the home. In particular, note if an aspect of the home is very different for a certain child than for children in general.

1. GROWTH PROMOTION AS A POLICY IN CHILD REARING

Evidence that respondent(s) believe a parent/caretaker should help children mature in adaption, emotion, language, cognition, etc.; evidence of achievement orientation for children vs. not helping children mature except for the convenience of the respondent(s).

5 Highly assisting of growth; implementation to help children mature; achievement orientation

3 Somewhat promotive of growth; some implementation; some demand for achievement

1 The only assistance to improve is for the convenience in caretaking; otherwise no help to mature or achieve some independence

COMMENTS: _____

2. DOMINANT CONTROL VS. INDULGENCE

Extent to which the parent(s)/caretaker(s) suggest, express, or exhibit control over the children in various ways vs. indulging the children, letting the children have their own way.

5 Parent(s)/caretaker(s) suggest, express, or exhibit dominance over children; set goals; make decisions

3 Moderate amount of control suggested, expressed, or exhibited, but children have their own way and choices to some extent

--	--	--	--

- 1 An indulgent, children-dominated home

COMMENTS: _____

3. ACCEPTANCE OF CHILDREN

Extent to which parent(s)/caretaker(s) emotionally accept their children.

- 5 Strong attachment, deep emotional commitment (but not the overprotective love mentioned in the next item)

- 3 Affection and attachment present but without great warmth; possibly mixed feelings

- 1 No evidence of affection for children

COMMENTS: _____

4. MATERNAL OVERPROTECTION (IF MOTHER/MOTHER FIGURE PRESENT)

Is there overprotection (where parent/caregiver's attachment represents a potentially unwholesome interdependence)?

- 0 No

- 3 Yes, overprotection which is dominative of the children

- 2 Yes, mixed dominative and indulgent overprotection

- 1 Yes, indulgent overprotection

COMMENTS: _____

--	--	--	--	--

5. REJECTION

Is any child rejected by parent(s)/caregiver(s)?

3 No

2 Possibly (Names of Children): _____

1 Yes (Names of Children): _____

COMMENTS: _____

6. COPING WITH CHILDREN

Rate parent(s)/caretaker(s) ability to cope with children (i.e., to deal with and attempt to overcome problems and difficulties). Are parent(s)/caretaker(s) successfully coping with any problems their children may be having? Or were they overwhelmed by the problems their children are having?

5 Exceptionally good coping. Parent(s)/caretaker(s) successful in handling both the children and any problems

4 Good coping. On the whole, parent(s)/caretaker(s) competent in handling children and problems

3 Fair coping. Problems caused or developed by children are eventually handled, but only after disruption

2 Poor coping. Attempts made to deal with children and problems but with little success

1 No coping. Chaos. Parent(s)/Caretaker(s) disorganized and unable to deal with children and problems.

COMMENTS: _____

7. ADJUSTMENT OF HOME

Rate the general internal adjustment of the family as a whole in its day-by-day relationships. Was the home atmosphere characterized by satisfaction and stability, or by frustration, unpleasantness, and insecurity?

5 Exceedingly well-adjusted. Characterized by pleasant cooperation, security, and full satisfaction throughout

--	--	--	--

- 4 Fundamentally sound adjustment, minor conflicts here and there
- 3 Smooth on surface, underlying tension
- 2 Definite evidence of mild maladjustment throughout
- 1 Dominated by maladjustment, coloring most of the activities

COMMENTS: _____

8. HARMONY IN THE HOME

Rate the extent to which the home surrounded the children with an atmosphere of overt conflict, discord vs. compliance. Was the home atmosphere marked by unpleasant discord among individuals? Or were interpersonal relationships of the household typically harmonious, friendly and agreeable?

- 5 Peaceful, harmonious, agreeable atmosphere reigns
- 4 Tolerant, friendly. Arguments tend to be good-natured
- 3 Harmonious basic relationships, perhaps overlaid with some surface contention, bickering and teasing
- 2 Underlying discords often break through the general surface harmony as sharp arguments, or ill-natured sarcasm
- 1 Household flies into vindictive recriminations, bitter disputes on slightest provocation

COMMENTS: _____

9. RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN CHILDREN'S PARENTS OR CARETAKERS

Stable, non-legal unions are counted as marriage. Rate the relationship (marital adjustment) of the respondent.

- 0 Not applicable, e.g., single parents who have never married or never established the relationship
- 5 Good adjustment. Warm, positive feeling, shared interests and activities
- 4 Adequate adjustment. Willing and able to discuss differences

- 3 Stresses contained within the marriage
- 2 Open conflict. Marriage sustained by social pressure, economic necessity, etc.
- 1 Broken marriage. Divorced, separated

COMMENTS: _____

10. CHILDREN'S INFLUENCE ON MARRIAGE

Rate the influence of the children on the relationship between their parents or caretakers. Has it been good? Or has it been bad? In the extreme case, marriage has broken up or is near breaking up because of tensions generated by children.

- 0 Not applicable. (Not presently married, or living with someone)
- 5 Very good. Children have brought parents much closer, produced more cohesive marriage.
- 4 Good.
- 3 Fair. Neither a good nor a bad influence.
- 2 Bad. Children's presence and problems cause some tension in marriage.
- 1 Very Bad. Children's presence and problems are major source of tension in marriage. Marriage in trouble.

COMMENTS: _____

11. SIBLINGS

Rate the support children provide another, e.g., helping with homework, playing together, caring for each other in the absence of parent.

- 0 Not applicable; no sibling
- 5 Children go out of their way to assist each other in important ways-- physically, emotionally, etc.
- 4 Children support and help each other. Accept each other

--	--	--	--

- 3 Children accept each other but give no special support or love
- 2 Children barely tolerate each other
- 1 Children resent each other and make things difficult for each other

COMMENTS: _____

12. PRIMARY CAREGIVER

Who is the primary caregiver for the children?

- 0 Unknown
- 7 Mother or mother-figure
- 6 Father or father-figure
- 5 Mother-father figures share equally
- 4 Housekeeper or sitter who is there much or has children at own home much
- 3 Grandparent or other adult relative
- 2 Sibling or other child 18 or younger who lives there
- 1 Other (specify: _____)

COMMENTS: _____

13 SECONDARY CAREGIVER

Is there a secondary caregiver of significance (more than occasionally good care by a sibling, housekeeper, sitter, etc.); that is, someone who truly shares responsibility and influence?

- 0 No secondary caregiver
- 7 Mother or mother-figure
- 6 Father or father-figure
- 5 Mother-father figures share equally
- 4 Housekeeper or sitter who is there much or has children at own home much

- 7

COMMENTS: _____

14. SIGNIFICANCE OF SECONDARY CAREGIVER

Indicate the significance of secondary caregiver:

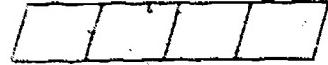

- 0 Not applicable; no secondary caregiver
4 Coordinated, consistent in philosophy with that of the primary caregiver
3 Different, but not discordant
2 Discordant, competitive (as with parents or guardians who are in conflict over the care)
1 Unable to tell

COMMENTS: _____

15. ROLE OF FATHER OR FATHER-FIGURE

Answer for actual father or any male adult who may provide father-type masculine input, as judged from all information and observation.

- 0 There is no evidence of adult masculine influence; the child seems to be lacking this 4 Yes, there is a father or male figure who is around enough to share in the caregiving
3 Yes, a father or male figure; does not help with everyday care, but plays with, takes out for games or to picnics, etc.
2 Yes, but role limited to discipline
1 Other masculine role. Explain: _____

COMMENTS: _____

16. SAFETY AND OTHER QUALITIES OF THE ENVIRONMENT

Dwelling is physically:

- 5 Sound
- 4 Not well kept up
- 3 Deteriorating
- 2 Dilapidated
- 1 Can't tell

COMMENTS: _____

17. SAFETY OF DWELLING

In terms of safety for a growing, dependent child, the dwelling may be considered:

- 5 Unusually safe and protective for a child
- 4
- 3 As safe as the average child's residence
- 2
- 1 Dangerous (broken steps, falling plaster, rodents, etc.)

COMMENTS: _____

18. SAFETY OF STREET, OUTDOOR PLAY SPACE

FAMILY ACTIVITIES (HELPS) SCORING SHEET *

Enter Family ID Number and indicate respondent. Open Parent Answer Booklet to pages 2, 3, and 4. The continuum for each item is scored 1 through 5, with 5 representing a response at the end of the scale indicating the greatest amount of experience, exposure to learning situations, etc. Refer to the scoring key for item response scores. Enter the score for each item (1, 2, 3, 4, or 5) in the appropriate factor column--Items 12, 15, 21, and 22 enter into factor scores twice. The factor score is the sum of the items in the factor column. The TOTAL score is the sum of the five factor scores. Calculate these sums and enter them in the appropriate blanks. NOTE: IF THE RESPONDENT GAVE DIFFERENT RESPONSES FOR DIFFERENT CHILDREN, AVERAGE THE RESPONSES OFF TO NEAREST WHOLE NUMBER WHERE NECESSARY.

Personal Feelings and Beliefs (Locus of Control)
Scoring Key

(Nowicki & Duke, 1974)

Items are keyed for a measure of external locus of control. Respondent receives a value of 1 for each item in the scale that matches Yes or No. Score Range: 0 - 40.

- Yes 1. Do you believe that most problems will solve themselves if you just don't fool with them?
- No 2. Do you believe that you can stop yourself from catching a cold?
- Yes 3. Are some people just born lucky?
- No. 4. While in school, most of the time did you feel that getting good grades mean a great deal to you?
- Yes 5. Are you often blamed for things that just aren't your fault?
- No 6. Do you believe that if a student studies hard enough he or she can pass any subject?
- Yes 7. Do you feel that most of the time it doesn't pay to try hard because things never turn out right anyway?
- Yes 8. Do you feel that if things start out well in the morning it's going to be a good day no matter what you do?
- No. 9. Do you feel that most of the time parents listen to what their children have to say?
- Yes 10. Do you believe that wishing can make good things happen?
- Yes 11. When people criticize or deal harshly with you, does it usually seem it's for no good reason at all?
- Yes 12. Most of the time do you find it hard to change a friend's (mind) opinion?
- No 13. Do you think that cheering more than luck helps a team to win?
- Yes 14. Did you feel that it was nearly impossible to change your parent's mind about anything?
- No 15. Do you believe that parents should allow children to make most of their own decisions?
- Yes 16. Do you feel that when you do something wrong there's very little you can do to make it right?
- Yes 17. Do you believe that most people are just born good at sports?

- Yes 18. Are most of the other people your age stronger than you are?
- Yes 19. Do you feel that one of the best ways to handle most problems is just not to think about them?
- No 20. Do you feel that you have a lot of choice in deciding who your friends are?
- Yes 21. If you find a four leaf clover, do you believe it might bring you good luck?
- No 22. While in school did you often feel that whether or not you did your homework had much to do with what kind of grades you got?
- Yes 23. Do you feel that when a person your age is angry at you, there's little you can do to stop him or her?
- Yes 24. Have you ever had a good luck charm?
- No 25. Do you believe that whether or not people like you depends on how you act?
- No 26. Did your parents usually help you if you asked them to?
- Yes 27. Have you felt that when people were angry with you it was usually for no reason at all?
- No 28. Most of the time, do you feel that you can change what might happen tomorrow by what you do today?
- Yes 29. Do you believe that when bad things are going to happen they just are going to happen no matter what you try to do to stop them?
- No 30. Do you think people can get their own way if they just keep trying?
- Yes 31. Most of the time do you find it useless to try to get your own way at home?
- No 32. Do you feel that when good things happen they happen because of hard work?
- Yes 33. Do you feel that when somebody your age wants to be your enemy there's little you can do to change matters?
- No 34. Do you feel that it's easy to get friends to do what you want them to do?
- Yes 35. Did you usually feel that you had little to say about what you had for meals at home?
- Yes 36. Do you feel that when someone doesn't like you there's little you can do about it?

- Yes 37. Did you usually feel that it was almost useless to try in school because most other children were just plain smarter than you were?
- No 38. Are you the kind of person who believes that planning ahead makes things turn out better?
- Yes 39. Most of the time, do you feel that you have little to say about what your family decides to do?
- No 40. Do you think it's better to be smart than to be lucky?

Verbal Problem-Solving

Discipline #1

Family Interview Booklet, P. 92, Q44a-44e.

Scoring

1. Range: A frequency tally of the number of unique, relevant responses across the first three questions:

44a. What are all the things you might do?

44b. Are there some things other parents might do?

44c. Which one of these things would you do?

2. Effectiveness: This is a rating of the parent's approach to and rational for solving the problem, based on their responses to 44c and 44d:

44c. Which one of these things would you do?

44d. Why would you do that?

The effectiveness of their approach is rated on a 3-point scale, with 3 representing an approach with high effectiveness, and 0 representing an approach with very low effectiveness. An explanation of each rating and interview examples are outlined below.

Effectiveness Ratings

3 = Positive approach to solving the problem that includes discussion of problem focusing on children's responsibility for damage done. Absence of negative approaches, such as yelling and physical punishment. *Also, positive preventive action by parent receives a 3-point rating.

Examples:

(44c) Unplug lamp and pick up broken pieces. Turn off TV. Restrict TV use for both of them for rest of day. Ask each to give their version of why they were right. Direct them to other activities which are separate and don't involve TV - a cooling off. Be sure TV wasn't on rest of day. (44d) Responsibility for problem and solution remain with participants and could be a growth experience.

Discipline #1

- (44c) First shut off TV and send them both to their room. After they've thought it over, we talk about it. After they discuss what they've done, they decide what the punishment would be. Probably the one who threw the pillow would have to buy a new one. (44d) That helps them to realize what they've done. Makes them think about the situation.
- *(44c) Wouldn't let it get that far. Have them talk it out - let them arrive at a decision. (44d) Good way for them to learn problem-solving.

Effectiveness Ratings

- ✓ 2 = Positive approach to solving the problem, but does not include discussion of problem focusing on children's responsibility for damage done. Absence of negative approaches, such as yelling and physical punishment.

Examples:

- (44c) "First turn off TV. Make them sit on couch for a few minutes and think about what they were doing. Then I'd wait a few minutes and ask if they knew what they did wrong. If so, they can get up and return to TV. (44d) Because it's important that they understand what they did wrong. To turn off TV and have them sit down helps them to think about what they were doing and perhaps reach a compromise.
- (44c) Shut off TV and make them go to bed. (44d) So I'd have peace and quiet and wouldn't have to listen to them argue.
- (44c) Try to remove them from the situation. (44d) To give them time to think about it.
- (44c) No TV for a week. (44d) That bothers the kids more than anything.

Discipline #1

Effectiveness Ratings

1 = Mixed approach to solving the problem, including both positive and negative approaches. May include discussion of problem focusing on children's responsibility for damage done.

Examples:

(44c) Make them do dishes every night for a month. Maybe given licken' with stick. (44d) It would be penance for them.

(44c) Holler. I'd remove both from situation, give time out for 6 minutes. Then sit them down at the table and we'd discuss their differences. Don't know about lamp. (44d) Don't think spanking helps child. If remove from situation so they have time to think and learn to find own answers.

(44c) She might swat them if she really lost her temper but usually she tries to handle it the other way [(44a.) Shut off TV, scold them real good. They would have to pay for lamp out of allowance money. They would have to stay in their rooms for quite a while.]) (44d) Wants them to be able to behave, not do it again.

Effectiveness Ratings

0 = Negative approach to problem or no approach, no action, ignore, "don't know." Vague responses.

Examples:

(44c) Would spank child, depends on situation--if another child gets hurt, then spanking a child might be appropriate. (44d) Don't know.

(44c) If it was a very good lamp, might swat one of the kids. (44d) Lot of anger - even though I know I shouldn't.

(44c) None of them. (44d) They have to learn responsibility to take care of things.

Verbal Problem-Solving

Discipline #2

Family Interview Booklet, P. 93, Q45a - 45e. For two-parent/partner families only.

Scoring

1. Range: A frequency tally of the number of unique, relevant responses across the first three questions:

45a. What are all the things you might do?

45b. Are there things only parents might do?

45c. Which one of these things would you do?

2. Effectiveness: This is a rating of the parent's approach to and rational for solving the problem, based on their responses to 45c and 45d:

45c. Which one of these things would you do?

45d. Why would you do that?

The effectiveness of their approach is rated on a 3-point scale, with 3 representing an approach with high effectiveness, and 0 representing an approach with very low effectiveness. An explanation of each rating and interview examples are outlined below.

Effectiveness Ratings

3 = Positive approach to solving problem that includes at least 3 of the elements listed below. Absence of negative approaches, such as yelling and physical punishment.

'Asking child why he was late

'Discussion of disciplinary action with spouse/partner, and agreement or compromise on action to be taken (including "no action" as a result of discussion)

Discipline #2

- Acceptance of disciplinary action taken by spouse/partner, so as not to undermine each other's parental authority
- Specifies positive action to be taken as the contingency for breaking the rule - negative approaches such as yelling and physical punishment do not count as positive action.

Example

(45c) Ask why late - where has he been. I never send child to bed without dinner. I'd send child to room anyway after he ate, to compromise with husband. (45d) Because I don't believe in sending child to bed hungry. Food is necessity, not luxury.

2 = Positive approach to solving problem that includes 2 of the elements listed for a 3-point rating. Absence of negative approaches, such as yelling and physical punishment.

Examples:

(45c) Try to work out compromise. Have him go to his room and miss dinner but let the grandmother go in and talk to him for a while after he has had time to think about it. (45d) So that you could work out something both parents could agree to.

(45c) If father said to go to room, he'd do that but let him come out and visit once things calmed down. (45d) Don't believe in undermining one parent's authority. Don't want to play one against other.

(45c) Ask Roger [husband] if we could talk privately. Ask Roger if he would talk to son and explain he should be punished, but why parents will make an exception in this case - am sure Roger would go along with it. (45d) Basic rule of respect - I don't ever want to demean him in front of someone. We try very hard not to embarrass each other or kids in front of others.

Effectiveness Ratings

1 = Positive approach to solving problem that includes 1 of the elements listed for a 3-point rating or

Mixed approach to solving problem, including 1 or more positive approaches listed for a 3-point rating, and negative approach(es) such as yelling and/or physical punishment.

Examples:

(45c) I'd talk it over with husband to let child visit with grandmother and punish him later. (45d) Because child should see grandma. I wouldn't want to embarrass him in front of his grandma.

(45c) I'd ask son where he's been and why he's late but I wouldn't chew him out until grandma left. Then I'd ground him and give out extra chores. He'd better apologize. (45d) To try to get him to learn he's better abide by house rules if he's going to grow up to be a good kid.

(45c) Try not to disagree in front of kids - just wait. (45d) Kids have a way of playing one parent against the other, especially certain ages.

Effectiveness Ratings

0 = Negative approach only to solving problem or no approach, no action, ignore, "Don't Know" or vague responses.

Examples"

(45c) None of them. (45d) Teach child a lesson.

Discipline #2

(45c) None of the above. (45d) Stupid to cause a scene when the child knows he's done wrong. We'd only have to say "we'll talk about this later," and they get the message.

SCORING INSTRUCTIONS*

Enter Family ID number, number of home visits made by interviewer, and your name at the top of the scoring sheet. Rated items have been grouped into factors or clusters and factor scores can be obtained by simply adding the raw scores of the items listed under each factor. There are two exceptions to this rule: (1) nominal scale items which require dichotomization prior to the factor scoring and (2) items which allow "not applicable" or "unable to tell" responses. These particular items and special scoring instructions are listed below:

	Raw Scores	Change to
Item 9	0	1
Item 11	0	3
Item 13	1 through 7	3
Item 14	0, 1	3
Item 20	1 through 6	1
Item 20	7	2
Item 21	2 through 5	1
Item 21	1, 6	2

Items not contributing to factor scores:

Item 2	5	1
Item 2	4	2
Item 4	0	3
Item 4	1 through 3	1
Item 10	1	3
Item 12	0 through 6	1
Item 12	7	2
Item 15	0	1
Item 15	1 through 4	2

Enter raw scores in the appropriate item blanks, paying particular attention to items (*) that require raw score changes for the raw scores listed above. If an item has not been rated by the interviewer, enter "NR" in the item blank and leave the TOTAL blank empty. Scoring for Parts P. through V. on the scoring sheet are self-explanatory.
